BERLIN CLAIMS WARSAW HAS BEEN EVACUATED

Report Lacks Confirmation—Petrograd Reports Capital Still Held and Germans Defeated

BERLIN, Aug. 4 (by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The Overseas News agency today says the Russian legation at The Hague has officially announced the evacuation of Warsaw on account of the lack of ammunition. The bridges over the Vistula River, the same notices say, have been ordered blown up. Reports prepared at the front and given out by the Overseas agency say that the investment of the Russian fortress of Ivangorod is progressing. Eight of the outer forts have been stormed, according to these notices and the possibility of the Russian forces within the citadel escaping is constantly diminishing. The actual evacuation of the Polish capital was not referred to in the Russian official communication issued in Petrograd today and no confirmation of the report has been received from any other source.

Boys Force Entrance to Warren L. Floyd's House—Stories Told in Police Court

Paul L. Libby, 22, walked into a pawn shop on Middlesex street yesterday afternoon for the purpose of disposing of a modern revolver but he was detected by Inspector John A. Walsh and taken to police station charged with unlawfully carrying a loaded pistol. His story resulted in the holding of two companions, one charged with larceny of a pair of 50-cent stockings and the other booked as a suspicious person. This morning Libby told what appeared to be a plausible story and his case was continued until tomorrow morning so that the police could investigate one or two details. He said

REAR-END COLLISION

TRAINS BOUND FOR BOSTON CRASH AT QUINCY—THREE PERSONS CUT BY FLYING GLASS

QUINCY, Aug. 4.—In a rear end collision at the Atlantic station on the Plymouth division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad today three persons were cut by flying glass and several others shaken up. The trains were bound for Boston.

The force of the collision was sufficient to throw the rear car of the train ahead off the track and roll it down a slight embankment onto a marsh. The three persons who were injured were the baggage master, an express messenger and a woman passenger.

BODY NOT IDENTIFIED

The body of the man drowned in the canal near the Appleton mills yesterday morning is still at the rooms of Undertakers McDonough's Sons awaiting identification. As a result of a story that the man formerly worked for the Gage Ice company, several of the older employees of the company viewed the body today but said they were positive he had not been employed by that concern during the past 25 years, at least. The authorities believe that the man was a stranger in this city. The body will probably have to be buried tomorrow if it is not identified.

BRITISH EMPIRE PRAYS

UNITED IN PRAYERFUL OBSERVANCE OF ANNIVERSARY OF DECLARATION OF WAR

LONDON, Aug. 4, 12:45 p. m.—The British empire united today in prayerful observance of the anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany. In virtually every city and town in the British Isles as well as in all parts of the dominions and colonies overseas, the day was one of prayer. The chief ceremony was held in London with services attended by King George and Queen Mary at noon in St. Paul's cathedral. The king and his consort drove to the cathedral through cheering crowds. The cathedral was thrown open to all comers and before a vast throng the Most Rev. Edward Davidson, archbishop of Canterbury and the Rt. Rev. Arthur F. Ingram, bishop of London, and their assistants conducted a brief and simple service, concluding with the hymn, "Through the Night of Darkest Hour," and the national anthem. Business was temporarily suspended on the stock exchange at noon while the members sang "God Save the King."

DEATH AND DESOLATION IN WAKE OF STORM

Erie, Pa., Flooded When Dams Gave Way After Cloudburst—$3,000,000 Damage—Gale and Storm Hit New York City Turning Streets Into Rivers—Two Drowned Off Coast—Heavy Damage in Baltimore

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 4.—Coroner D. S. Hanley shortly before noon today estimated that 50 persons perished in last night's flood. Mayor Stern, at 10 o'clock said the number would not exceed 25, but after a survey of the debris and checking over a list of missing, raised the estimate to 50. Although Coroner Hanley's figures were based largely upon lists of missing, many of whom were later located, he did not lower his estimate as these names came in and other city officials were inclined to accept his estimate as at least approximately accurate.

was right behind me. Your men at Lakeport, Laconia and Lochmere were on the job. Will pass through Lowell before Friday noon. Watch my trail. Jack.

Shot the Rapids
Franklin, N. H., Aug. 3.
Jackson Palmer left here at 4:10 p. m. after posing for Dick Sears for Hearst-Selig weekly. Palmer shot through the rapids at Franklin and the whole town turned out to see him.

It was a dare-devil stunt but as the water is higher than usual it was impossible to shoot any of the dams at the end of the rapids. People were there with ropes in case his canoe turned over so that he could save himself by grasping the ropes, otherwise he would go over the dam to his death. Palmer sends regards and will be back in three days judging by the way he is going.

Dick Sears.

Collided with Stump
Early this afternoon The Sun heard from Mr. Palmer at a point between Concord and Manchester, where he was held up on account of slight injuries to his canoe. While proceeding along just below Concord he collided with a submerged tree stump, puncturing his canoe. He immediately put for the shore and got there before his canoe became filled. Under the conditions of his agreement he must repair the canoe without assistance. He sent word that he will reach Manchester tonight and in the morning will start on the long home stretch.

Rescuers to Work Tonight
The rescue forces of police, firemen and lifesavers were augmented during the day by civilian volunteers and preparations were made to work by artificial light during the night.

The immense pile of wreckage from barriers from fifty to seventy feet high in the middle course of the flood through the city's business section, and the task before the workers is a tremendous one.

Buildings Demolished
Some buildings were totally demolished, while others were tossed almost undamaged upon the hills along which the torrent rushed. The bodies of some of the victims were found a mile from the spot where they were caught by the rush of water, and it is considered likely that some were carried out into the lake.

Funds for Sufferers
A systematic canvass of the city for persons reported missing was begun by the police at noon.

The city responded generously to the call for funds for the suffering and homeless issued by Mayor Stern. The mayor has also announced that a thorough investigation of the disaster will be made calling attention to the fact that warning from the danger from Mill creek had been given in 1903 when it overflowed its banks and caused loss of life.

ERIE FLOODED
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 4.—Daylight here broke over a flood-stricken city with its business streets running rivers of water. Many lives lost. Property damage estimated at three millions.

NO NOM DE PLUME FOR WILLIAM W. DUNCAN

Commissioner Does Not Agree With Mayor on High School Plans—Wants Names on Plans

Commissioner Duncan in conversation with a Sun reporter this morning said several out-of-town architects other than those who were heard yesterday, have asked for a conference on the high school plans, and their request, he said, would be granted. Speaking about the plans Mr. Duncan said he is much in favor of hiring an expert architect who will act as a supervising architect, and he hopes the foundation of the new building will be finished before the snow flies. If the plans submitted by local architects are on an equal basis with those of out-of-town men, the commissioner favors giving the job to a Lowell man.

$5000 FOR MISS BENNETT

Man to Whom She Was Kind Remembered Lowell School Teacher in His Will

By the will of the late Albert H. Hayden, Miss Jennie M. Bennett, a Lowell school teacher, will receive $5000. The will has been allowed by Judge Charles J. McIntire of the probate court in Cambridge.

Mr. Hayden died at his brother's home in Cambridge May 21, of the present year. He spent the greater part of his life in Lowell, having come here in 1870, or thereabout. For the last 15 years of his life he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Nuttall, 305 Summer street. It was here, presumably, that he first met Miss Bennett as she, too, lived at Nuttall's or took her meals there. She was kind to Mr. Hayden and he showed his appreciation by remembering her in his will. Miss Bennett is a teacher in the Grand Street primary school.

James F. Hayden, a brother of the deceased, has been appointed as executor and has given a bond of $100,000. The estate is valued at $50,000, all in personal property. The will was dated Jan. 24, 1910, and provided as follows:

To Jennie M. Bennett of Lowell, school teacher, $5000.

To Harriet P. Heald of Cambridge, housekeeper for his brother, James F. Hayden, $5000.

To his brother Frederick A. Hayden of Lincoln, $100.

snatched to London. Although Great Britain's notes were made public only last night and the state department received them only Monday, the American government knew the British views through informal conferences between American and British officials here and in London and had framed its reply before the notes actually were received. It is believed there will be little change in the answer already prepared when it goes to London.

Admitting the unusual conditions which Great Britain contends are bases for exceptional action, the American reply will continue to contest the legality of taking ships from the high seas on voyages to neutral ports. It is understood the American government will differentiate from ships on the high seas and ships which go to British ports or which attempt to run blockade lines. The British argument that American commerce has not suffered also will be contested.

In all quarters it seems to be agreed that the controversy has reached the stage of an academic discussion, with some evidences of a trend toward ultimate submission to an international arbitral commission as a way out of the deadlock.

Times and temptations come not frequently when we could make money fast for a little while by putting out our light and selling goods of a cheapened quality on the strength of a standard reputation. These times and temptations come to every merchant. They are like quicksands in the path and it is only by keeping the light burning strong and true that they may be passed over and overcome. A good light always shines straight ahead and an uphill path is easiest in the darkness.

ARE MARRIED IN LONDON

Daughter of Ambassador Page Married to Chas. Greely Loring at St. James' Palace

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Miss Katherine Page, daughter of the American ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Walter Hines Page, was married at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon at the Chapel Royal, St. James' palace, to Charles Greely Loring, son of General Charles Loring of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Boyd-Carpenter, sub-dean of Westminster abbey, assisted by the Rev. Edgar D. Shepp, sub-dean of the Chapel Royal. The bride was given away by her father, and her brother, Frank Page, was Mr. Loring's best man.

The wedding was very simple, because the ambassador's family desired to avoid anything resembling a social function while the war is in progress. The floral decorations were beautiful, but not profuse. Members of the government, representatives of the royal court and diplomats present wore morning dress. The invitations virtually were limited to friends in official life and intimate friends of the family, the guests numbering hardly more than 100, all told. All the ambassadors to Great Britain were present with their wives and the British government was represented by Frederick Grey, secretary for foreign affairs. The military and naval attaches of the United States embassy acted as witnesses.

The bride's gown was of white tulle over crepe de chine with rows of old Brussels point lace around the under-skirt. Her veil was of white tulle.

After the regular routine business of the evening was transacted, the honors of the order were conferred upon two visiting members from Connecticut. The main discussion of the evening was the outing to be held by Excelsior lodge at Bunting park, Aug. 14, for the benefit of the members and their friends. The entertainment committee has been underling in its efforts to make it a big success and has a list of sports arranged which will include a baseball game between the married and the single men. A football game between the Bunting's picked team and a team representing Excelsior lodge will be the main features of the afternoon.

POOR VACATION WEATHER

Vacationers out of town for the people of Lowell this summer are not so numerous as those of past seasons, according to a statement of one of the local officials of the Boston & Maine, and those who have availed themselves of a short respite during the summer months have not gone far from home. As this official remarked: "The weather conditions haven't been such as to make a trip to the mountains necessary for one to keep cool, and thus far the vacationist hasn't had to go to one of the beaches to get wet." The beaches along the New England coast and the mountains seem to be the objective points of those who have had vacations, and many have enjoyed a vacation in Maine and New Hampshire. The railroad business is picking up, however, and it is expected that in a few weeks business will be back to normal, and that August and September will be big vacation months.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

Amateur baseball is in full swing nowadays and there are half a dozen teams which play usually a corking good game of ball. When we say "amateur" we use the term advisedly; for it is a patent fact that more than one among these teams carries men under the name of professional players. Even gentlemen behind the Lawrence corporation team who started off with the best intentions in the world by establishing a real ball ground, carried in a recent game three or four professionals who never saw the inside of the Lawrence mills. To be sure the Lawrence team won this game; but aside from the men backing it with their money, I notice but little evidence of enthusiasm on the part of the natural adherents of the team.

Was ever thus. The moment you introduce money into amateur baseball the game becomes secondary to the dollar and suffers. I never knew it to fall. A certain industrial organization among young men of this city by the use of phoney cards of membership and the introduction of money practically killed the game as far as this organization is concerned; and from being a leader in the promotion of clean baseball has sunk out of sight. If it ever revives interest in the game I trust it will be shown that it profited from its experience of three or four years ago.

Rudyard Kipling's Speech

Did you read what was published of Rudyard Kipling's speech which he delivered at Southampton, Eng., recently? Of all the literature which I have read bearing upon the great war now going on I have read nothing that has impressed me so strongly nor have I seen a picture so powerfully and convincingly drawn of the objects that Germany is striving to attain. If Kipling is right, then Germany's opponents are fighting for their very existence particularly England, who if Germany is the victor, would be subjected to untold outrage and indignities. Somehow these words of Kipling spoken to arouse the martial spirit in the hearts of Englishmen go farther and among American sympathizers with Germany may cause considerable perplexity. They might well ask of themselves some questions which had not occurred to them before.

The Best in Music

Rafael Joseffy, pianist, who died in New York not long since was one of the great artists of his time. Although born in Hungary in 1852 most of his life was spent in the United States and during these best years he gave uninterruptedly of the best that in him for the propagation of the best in music. No European horn musician ever became a greater factor than he in instilling and developing the principles of pianoforte playing and none excelled him in mastery of his art. He was more than a teacher among his pupils—he was an inspiration. Intellectual in a high degree he ever laid stress upon the importance of the mental development of his pupils as a necessary part of their musical education. Hundreds of his former pupils attest the truth of his conceptions and the efficacy of his methods. Pasquale Tallarico, not unknown here, was Joseffy's private pupil for five years or more and he has told me something of his master's teaching methods and personal characteristics. Tallarico, who has much originality of his own, could scarcely fail to unconsciously absorb a certain life work of his teacher's style. This would be evident to anyone who had also heard Joseffy. To hear the pupil is to recall the pulse, the inclusive touch, the delicacy, the repose, the resolution, and the power of the master. The last time I heard Joseffy was years ago in Boston music hall where he appeared with the Theodore Thomas' orchestra and played a Beethoven concerto. The impression which he made upon me is still felt; and I see him yet, the dominating figure of that great audience. For a few years Joseffy toured the country appearing in recital and with orchestra; but he disliked that sort of thing and more money was the last thing he sought. After his retirement from concert work he associated himself with a New York school of music which, until his death, became the scene of his real life work. Thus the concert stage lost one of its most brilliant ornaments, while the cause of music gained a great educator. Joseffy's first noted teacher was Brauer who also taught Stephen Heller. He studied under Moscheles and Wenzel in Leipzig, was with Tausig in Berlin for two years and later spent two summers with Liszt at Weimar. He came to the United States in 1879 and has since made New York his home. Fame came to him unsought, for he cared nothing for it; and wealth (of money) could have been his from the millions of strokes of his pen. With him his art was supreme—nothing else mattered. He was most happy in his retirement from the public gaze and never envied his brother artists in the glare of the footlights. He was a great artist and a great musician. His passing is a great loss to the world of music.

The Old Portsmouth

Perhaps the old sloop-of-war Portsmouth is not as famous as Old Ironsides or other war craft of olden times; but nevertheless she has figured in important work and was worthy a better fate than to be dismantled and sold as junk. In the Mexican war she took possession of San Francisco bay, Commodore Perry took her to Japan, which venture was the opening up of Japan's intercourse with Occidental peoples. She saw service in Chinese waters and compelled respect to be paid to her flag, and finally she shared in the operations of Farragut at New Orleans. Since the Civil war she has been employed in various capacities; but now at the good old age of 72 a grateful nation must see her burned to the water's edge. She was launched at Portsmouth and will soon be burned at Boston. It is doubtful if the poet, with all the genius and inspiration of an Oliver Wendell Holmes in his lines, could save her now. The old Portsmouth—sold for Junk!

The Judge Says---

Put a package of these real corn flakes—these

NEW

on trial beside a package of any other corn flakes on the market. The jury will bring in a verdict of "guilty"—guilty of being the finest corn flakes ever made.

The New Post Toasties are crisp and appetizing, with a true corn flavour; and they don't mush down when milk or cream is added.

But here's the real test. Take a handful, fresh from the package, and eat them without cream or milk. Mighty good, aren't they?

Notice the little "puffs" on each flake—a distinguishing characteristic—resulting from the new method of cooking and toasting, which also brings out and enhances the wonderful, true corn flavour.

Your Grocer has the New Post Toasties. Try them and bring in your verdict—

WARDEN MAKES STATEMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing who, in speeches at Columbia university and at the prison Monday said he expected to be removed shortly, but declared that he "would come back" yesterday made public letters he has written to Gov. Whitman and Superintendent of Prisons Riley.

Mr. Osborne in his letter to the governor, replied to the statement that others than he should receive credit for the new system at Sing Sing by saying the convicts deserve the chief credit for the improvements and extended privileges.

Mr. Osborne stated he had prepared a temporary dormitory at Sing Sing to stop the practice of "doubling-up" convicts in cells. He added that he was not allowed to use the dormitory, for a reason he did not know, and was thus forced to continue this "barbarous" practice.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

CHARLIE CHAPLIN CONTEST
All aboard for the Charlie Chaplin contest. Everybody is talking about it, and while 2000 attended on the opening night, which was held in the Kastine on last Friday evening, July 30, this Friday which is the second night of the contest bids fair to surpass the attendance of last. The management announces that on this Friday evening to give everybody an opportunity to see the contestants at least once they are going to reduce the admission price to 10 cents. Owing to the large attendance attached to the contest they will be forced to charge 5c a figure for dancing during the evening. They are also allowing for the admission price two free dances.

The contestants report they are all hard at work practicing, trying to do the best of their ability to imitate the great comedian, Charlie Chaplin. The result of their efforts will speak for itself on Friday evening. On Friday evening ten of the contestants will be dropped, leaving only five, and on the final evening of the contest the lucky winners of the three prizes will be chosen.

In addition to the contest the management has secured a big attraction in ten cabaret girls who will furnish a delightful entertainment. These girls are local young ladies. Who are they? That's the mystery. A complete and up-to-date program has been arranged and the very latest numbers will be rendered in a most pleasing manner.

Don't forget the price of admission will be only 10c. Come up early as there is bound to be a large crowd and the cabaret show starts promptly at 8:15 p. m.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Today is the last day of the appearance of dainty Marguerite Clark in her latest comedy success, "Seven Sisters." Besides being a sparkling comedy with a most original plot, "Seven Sisters" brings before the audience some of the customs of the Hungarians which are traditional. The acting of the cast is exceptionally fine. Miss Clark being supported by well chosen actors. The role of Mici, the wily daughter, is interpreted by Marguerite Clark, and in this role she is more winsome than ever. Do not fail to see "Blue Blood and Yellow," the seventh episode of "Who Pays?" which is also shown today for the last time. Pathe Weekly and the very humorous Tom Wise comedy will also be shown today. For the next three days of the week the principal attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre will be Mary Pickford in her mighty triumph, "Rags," which is a five-act Paramount picture of a girl who raises herself from the lowest social strata up to the level of the man she loves and whom she marries. In this play Mary Pickford, who, by the way, has not appeared for some time, will attract many admirers.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

No more charming little actress has appeared in moving pictures than is Mary Miles Minter, who, twice today, will be seen at the B. F. Keith theatre, in "Always in the Way." Miss Minter, who is barely 17 years old, created a furor two years ago by her acting of the title character of "The Little Rebel." Since that time she has achieved other exceptional parts, and was personally selected by the song writer, Charles K. Harris, to play the part of "Dorothy" in the filmization of his famous ballad. Miss Minter is pretty and graceful, and in her every movement there is the sign of youth. Harris' song furnishes plenty of opportunity for dramatic treatment. The six parts of the photo-play literally teem with good things. Among these is the attack of the maddened Zulu warriors on the home of the African missionaries. Throwing their blazing spears, they soon set fire to the thatched roof, and then kill the missionaries. "Dorothy," their adopted daughter, is pursued, but is saved by a big negro who has been converted. These are stirring scenes, but they are only two of many which go to make up this Metro production, one of the best yet seen at this theatre. There are in addition four shorter pictures, including an Ade fable and a Chaplin comedy. Thursday, Friday and Saturday Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow will appear in "The Second in Command."

OWL THEATRE

The feature picture shown at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow is "The Failure," a Mutual master picture, with John Emerson assisted by the well known Reliance players. "Failure" is full of graphic, thrilling realism, overwhelming in its pathos and vivid appeal and dramatic in plot and action. The hero of the play, which sets a new standard in the art of moving picture production, is a shrewd reporter, but one with lefty ideas and a burning purpose. How he avenges the disgrace of a young girl and himself forms the most stirring play ever written for Mutual. Five other films will also be shown—a ten-reel Mutual show, today and tomorrow only. "Up from the Depths" is the feature for Friday and Saturday.

ROYAL THEATRE

Anita Stewart as Vitaphone's "Goddess" has created one of the sublimest characters ever presented in motion pictures since its invention. Possessing an abundance of good looks and dimples, as sweet as a May morn, she stands far above the average actress. In one of the most charming, fascinating, awe-inspiring roles ever conceived by man. Assisted by talented, manly and good looking Earle Williams, she is recasting, through the entire breadth and length of the states, "The Goddess," seventh episode of the continued romance, will be shown at the Royal today and tomorrow, along with a dandy program of new and up-to-date comedies and dramas. The "Ham and Sud" comedy is especially recommended for the blues.

GAYORIE LAKE

Miss Alice Bagley of Lowell, who for a long time appeared in engagements at local theatres, is one of the many stars appearing in Ben Loring's Big Musical Revue at Gayorio Lake Park. During all this week, and hosts of her local friends are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy her in her new field of endeavor. Miss Bagley has developed into one of the most talented musical comedy stars, and besides that old time ability of handling her songs in their most pleasing way, she displays a number of beautiful costumes that must excite the eyes and admiration of all her feminine sisters. Miss Bagley's rise in the world of musical comedy has been rapid and unusual. A few years ago she was appearing in the many picture theatres as illustrated song singer where her pleasing voice was heard by one of the talent scouts of the Human's Musical Revue, who quickly made arrangements for her appearance with one of the Human's companies. Her quick adaptability to this style of entertainment soon won for her the more prominent parts, and when Ben Loring was arranging for his present tour he saw the advisability of securing this talented little girl and she was offered a leading role, which was accepted. The Musical Revue scintillates with fun, melody and pretty dances. It is built on a far more elaborate scale than the average musical show of this kind and in all of the entire cast of 12 there is no one artist who is not well above par either in singing, dancing or the creation of pure marionettes. At the dance hall this evening the management has arranged for the appearance of the famous Elite quartet, who will sing during and between dances.

At the theatre Friday evening the management will offer a Charlie Chaplin contest with prizes for the best imitation of the famous comedian.

ON RELIGIOUS BIGOTRY

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS COMMISSION REPORTS TO CONVENTION ON MANY PHASES OF PREJUDICE

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 4.—The supreme council of the Knights of Columbus, in convention here, received last night the report of the commission on religious prejudices which expressed the belief that "American fair play will prevail over religious bigotry."

The report, presented by Col. P. H. Callahan, chairman, expressed satisfaction for aid by the general public and special mention was made of the fairness shown by The Associated Press and newspapers in general regarding religious matters. Seven recommendations were attached to the report. The first of these declared a principal cause for prejudice against Catholics arose from an erroneous belief among non-Catholics "that we owe such allegiance to the pope as is incompatible with proper allegiance to our country."

"We should lose no proper occasion to declare the position of Catholics," stated the report "and the teachings of the church on this matter, namely, that while Catholics acknowledge the pope to be supreme in spiritual matters, they do not hold that he has any authority in civil matters. If any spiritual authority were to direct us to do any act contrary to the rights of free citizens, or the welfare of society, we would be bound to disobey."

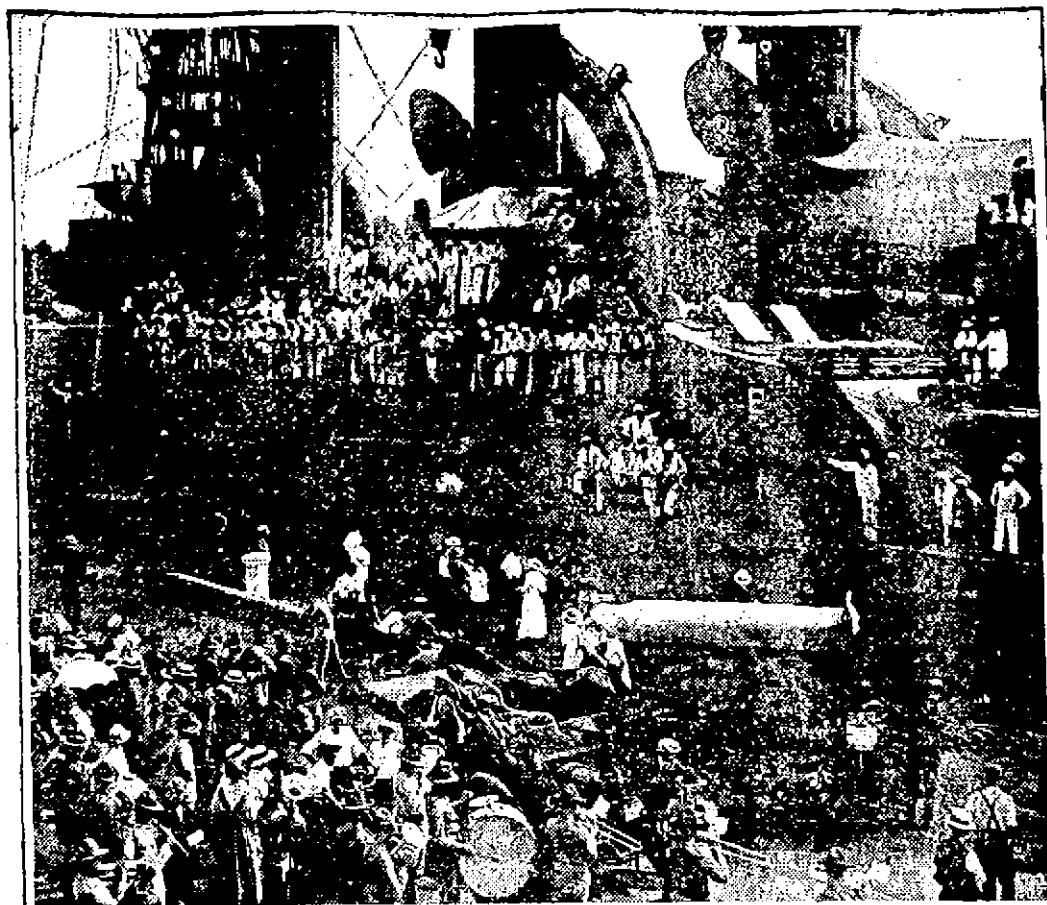

The report declared that Catholic upholding and support the public school system, but feel that religious instruction is necessary, and therefore bear an extra burden for private schools. An opinion was expressed that in time all general forms of religion will be taught in free schools.

The report concerns the action of politicians in raising religious issues in campaigns, as well as the activities of quasi-political societies in discriminating against persons of any faith. It was recommended that the commission be made permanent.

The report of the secretary stated $1,921,012.74 was collected during the past year, and that the assets of the order exclusive of special funds, are nearly $8,000,000. There are now nearly 330,000 members.

AMERICAN MARINES VIGOROUSLY PUTTING DOWN HAITIAN REVOLT

MARINES OFF TO HAITI

Acting vigorously on his instructions from Washington to restore order in Haiti, Rear Admiral Caperton has sent a special commission from Port au Prince to Cape Haitien, 169 miles distant, to bring about the disbanding of the revolutionary forces in the northern part of the republic. This commission will request General Bobo, leader of the revolutionary forces, and General Blot, leader of the forces of the defunct Guillaume government, to return to Port au Prince with the members of the commission in order to join in conferences to promote order in Haiti. Admiral Caperton notified Secretary Daniels that such action has been taken. An earlier dispatch from the admiral to the navy department showed that the American force of marines and bluejackets is proceeding vigorously with the work of disarming the natives, but while the Haitian soldiers are turning in arms to the naval authorities, many arms are being secretly retained. There can be read between the lines of the messages received from Admiral Caperton full confirmation of statements made in special dispatches from Washington, which stated that the American expeditionary force in Haiti will remain ashore there until order has been fully restored, until an orderly government has been established and in all probability until guarantees are given for the future. In the accompanying illustration is shown marines leaving Philadelphia for Haiti on the battleship Connecticut.

KILLED SON AND HERSELF

MRS. ALLEN, WIFE OF HEAD OF MERIDEN GRAVURE CO., HAD BEEN UNDER TREATMENT

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Nellie Breese Allen, wife of James Allen, president and treasurer of the Meriden Gravure company, fatally shot her youngest son, Gordon, aged 3 years, as he slept this morning and then killed herself. Mrs. Allen had been under treatment for melancholia.

The weapon used was a large caliber revolver. The son was shot through the heart and Mrs. Allen sent one bullet through her brain. Mother and son lay side by side when Mr. Allen found them in response to cries of the governess, who had heard the report of a pistol. Medical Examiner E. T. Bradstreet decided that Mrs. Allen suddenly had become deranged. She had been under treatment for several years but last evening she was in excellent spirits.

Mrs. Allen was 47 years of age.

NO STRIKE HERE

Men Making Munitions of War in Lowell are Not Union Men

The country-wide strike of all union machinists employed in plants manufacturing munitions of war, which leading labor advocates of the country say is imminent, will not reach here according to statements made by machinists of this city.

The reason given for this is that there are not enough union machinists working in the one or two plants of this city which are turning out war materials, and that a strike could not be successfully conducted in these, unless the ranks of the union men were swelled by the addition of the machinists who at the present time do not hold membership in any labor organization.

The International Association of Machinists which is at the head of the movement to start a universal strike sent organizers to Providence yesterday to center the fight on the Brown & Sharpe Mfg. Co., the president of which, Henry Sharpe, is the New England president of the Manufacturers' Metal Trade association. It is said by union leaders at the head of the movement that they have knowledge of preparations being made by the Manufacturers' Metal Trade association to head off the growing demands of the machinists before the movement assumes large proportions.

General Organizer Harry Gill, who is well known in this city, and James "Pitchfork" Henderson, who arrived in Boston yesterday, were rushed to Providence to take charge of the fight against the Brown & Sharpe company where 12,000 men are employed. In the effort to head off the fight of the

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

Plans for Joint Cooperation to Restore Peace — Conference Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Interest in tomorrow's conference on the Mexican problem between Secretary Lansing and diplomatic representatives of six Latin-American countries was heightened today as further details of the origin of the plan for joint cooperation in pacifying the southern republic came to light. One of the latest developments is the fact that decision to ask aid of Central and South America in settling the Mexican difficulty was reached by President Wilson in June, when his warning to the warring factions to settle their difficulties and restore peace went unheeded. The diplomats were invited June 30 to participate in a conference while the appeal to the Mexican factions was made June 2. Announcement was withheld, however, pending the sanctioning of the plan by the Latin-American nations.

It was considered likely today that the first step in the president's plan which will be submitted to the conference by Secretary Lansing will be a last appeal to the factions to end the strife and arrange for a settled government. If any factions fail to heed the warning the plan is said to include extension of moral and financial support to other factions. The plan is said to include also a restoration of the ban on war munitions to the revolting factions and a demand that the railroad line between Vera Cruz and Mexico City be kept open for the transportation of food supplies to the starving people of the capital. Failure to do this might result in joint steps by the United States and the Latin-American nations to take physical control of the capital and the railroad and to hold them pending restoration of peace.

Paul Fuller, one of President Wilson's special envoys in Mexico since the break between Carranza and Villa, will participate in the conference tomorrow. Duval West, another of the president's special investigators, is also in the city.

Mr. Fuller is understood to have been sounding the Mexican leaders and has brought encouraging reports. Secretary Lansing continued to refuse to discuss the plan of procedure, but the belief grows in official quarters that it contemplates designating a president satisfactory to at least a large portion of the Mexican people and whose government will be recognized by the American nations. European governments with heavy Mexican holdings are believed to be ready to follow the lead of the United States.

BACHELOR GIRLS' CLUB
A delightful entertainment was given at the Casino by the Bachelor Girls' club last evening. The attendance was very large and the success of the evening was very flattering to the young women members of the organization. Several excellent chorus selections were given and the frequent applause given by the audience proved its appreciation of the musical numbers. Particularly interesting and well rendered was the opening chorus, which proved a hit of the evening. The soloists were Misses Madeline Dolan, Mae Molloy, Rose Nicholson and Genevieve Winn. The interlocutor was Miss Etta

Finnegan, who proved to be the right girl in the right place. Another interesting number was the Irish dance given by Misses Mae Kang and Julia Boland.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

ALL AMERICAS TO AID

The policy of watchful waiting has been abandoned, according to the latest reports from Washington on the Mexican situation, but the great ideal of peace and justice on which it was founded has not been abandoned. Failing to impress Mexico with the sincerity of the American demand for a settlement of the disputes that have so long torn the unhappy country asunder, President Wilson and his cabinet have decided to take another course that promises a practical solution of the complex problem, and that promises at the same time to advance American interests in all parts of the world without sacrificing any American principle.

Our government has now decided to ask the co-operation of Central and South America in the next step to be taken for the restoration of peace in Mexico. What that step will be has not been decided on as yet, but even though it should be armed intervention, it will be in concert with the southern republics. If the plans of the administration materialize, the president has invited a conference of envoys of the leading Central and South American countries, with our state department, next Thursday, and at this conference plans will be formulated to restore peace in Mexico.

In this great Pan-American movement, President Wilson disarms the suspicion of all powers regarding our designs on Mexico, interprets the Monroe doctrine broadly, takes the ground from under the feet of the Mexican factions and draws the cords of brotherly relationship more closely around all the Americas. He gives a great impetus to the movement for closer commercial and social relations between us and the southern republics and goes a great way to remove the dislike which has operated so against us in our dealings with the great and progressive neighbors. While all the leading manufacturing nations are striving might and main to profit by the trade reorganization that must follow the war, President Wilson by this ideal movement shows this hemisphere that its interests are related and interdependent. This country will reap the reward in greater trade expansion and more cordial international relations for the future.

General Villa was quoted as saying a few days ago that this country "can go to hell." He and the other Mexican leaders have often shown that this is their true sentiment towards us. They evidently presumed too far on the well known desire of President Wilson and his advisors for peace, and counted on an united Mexico to resist possible armed intervention. Should intervention be finally decided on, Mexico will not face the United States alone; but the expressed determination of all America that Mexican outrages must cease. Once before, mediation by the United States and South America was potent to bring temporary relief, but it is to be expected that when the next move is taken by Washington, nothing short of permanent peace will be accepted.

It may be that the jingoes will not approve this new step; a year ago they would certainly condemn it. Today war is not as attractive looking as it used to be, and they who would condemn the new policy of President Wilson have a hard task in making the alternative of war sound alluring. Our government, on the other hand, can truly claim that without abandoning any ideal or sacrificing any American right, it has only followed the consistent course mapped out to bring peace to Mexico and show humanity that one great nation can be just, unselfish and truly noble in its dealings with a smaller power. It is counseling indeed to turn from the inferno of the old world to the altruism of the new as reflected in this exalted policy of President Wilson.

THE HOSPITAL SITE

That perpetual contentious hospital site question is once again before us and the official intimations concerning it have a strangely familiar sound. We were told a few days ago that the selection would surely be made in a very short time and that the choice would be restricted to four prospective sites that had survived the process of elimination.

A few of the sites mentioned were discussed during the previous administration amid a furor of popular opposition, and none of them had any new or exceptional features. Now the die has been cast, and the site selected is that selected by the previous administration and rejected after a storm of protest from the residents of Pawtucketville.

Probably it would be difficult to get an unanimous approval of any site mentioned or selected in this city since the law making such a hospital compulsory was passed, but the present choice has some strange aspects that give cause for general opposition. There certainly was sufficient time for the city authorities to make up their minds, and it is to be presumed that they decided on the Gage lot only after a wide search and deep discussion. The Gage lot therefore stands as the one desirable site in the city or its environs—in the opinion of the municipal council. It remains to be seen whether this opinion is shared by the citizens of Lowell or by any considerable number; it is out of the question to suppose that the residents of Pawtucketville will approve. Their opinion was voiced too recently and too emphatically to be forgotten.

A site selected by the last administration was rejected, partly because of the objection of the comparatively few residents in the neighborhood, partly because of the opposition of some interested individuals, but ostensibly because of the cost. This site had a splendid residence that could have been utilized, sewer connections, healthful location, isolation, and many other requisite features. The cost was around $20,000 and a slight outlay would have given the city an adequate contagious hospital. Some members of the present administration were instrumental in having the site rejected, and a new selection has been made only when it was evident that the state would no longer tolerate conditions as they are.

It now remains to be seen in what the present site, as accepted yesterday, excels. It is in a far more populous section; it has no buildings that can be utilized; there will have to be a large preliminary outlay before any hospital building can be erected. Sewers, grading, water connection, lighting and such essentials will pile up a large expenditure and if the same judgment is shown in the erection of a hospital proper as was shown in some famous bridge plans of late, the city will have good cause to regret the change in hospital sites. Moreover, the original selection of this site aroused the angry protest of a large and growing section of the city, and the re-selection of it does not promise to be in any degree more popular. After ignoring the demands of the state for so long, the municipal council has come to a decision that has many surprises. The city in general and Pawtucketville in particular will view the long delayed selection with slight enthusiasm.

ENGLAND DEFENDS BLOCKADE
While this country insists on the observance of American rights under international law, the belligerent powers virtually declare that all is fair in war. They show no disposition to abandon any advantage or any policy that would prove advantageous, whether such be in accordance with or contrary to international law, or any other law human or divine. All of the belligerent powers seem to regard the law as binding only on the enemy, and while they respectively disregard it to a greater or lesser degree, our state department is piling up protest after protest, refusing to see in the pressing necessity of any nation just cause for the impairing of any American right.

Three notes from Great Britain now in the hands of Secretary Lansing defend England's efforts to suppress trade between Germany and neutral nations or even to suppress trade between two neutrals, if it is suspected that Germany has a direct interest in the transaction. There is a great deal of dissatisfaction in this country at England's interference with our commerce, and our government has contended that the English government is not respecting the terms of international law. Particular dissatisfaction is felt against the many orders in council which are very injurious to the business interests of this country and some of which are not in accordance with legal precedent. Great quantities of foods and raw products shipped from American ports to northern European ports have been detained, and there are millions of dollars' worth of goods purchased by Americans in Germany, Holland and elsewhere that cannot be moved, owing to the attitude of the British government.

Popular resentment here has not been shown against England in the same degree as against Germany, largely because of the sacrifice of American lives due to Germany's submarine policy, but nevertheless there is a well defined feeling that American rights must be respected by all equally. American business, backed up by the American government, will continue to demand that neither England nor Germany shall injure any American interests that are legitimate and guaranteed by the international law that is now so sadly disregarded.

BUSINESS STRAWS

The crop outlook in this country is splendid, money is plentiful, prices are high and there is no abnormal degree of unemployment, but business is not as good as might be expected. This is largely due to popular diffidence arising from a variety of causes, and is needless for the most part. Consumers are not buying in large quantities, retail trade is not as brisk as usual and as a result there is a feeling of depression in manufacturing and transportation lines. Nevertheless, taking the usual summer lull into account, trade is probably as active as could be reasonably expected.

Iron and steel are usually considered the pivotal industries of this country and they are looked on as barometers of general conditions. Both lines report unusual prosperity, but still bank clearings and railroad earnings do not show an appreciable increase. Railroad earnings in New England for both May and June show some improvement and there are many bright spots in the industrial situation. Motor car manufacturing is brisk, the textile trade keeps up, and war orders surge in gradually widening circles. The basic conditions are sound and sure; the deterrent influences are for the most part temporary and remediable.

The New England letter of the First National bank of Boston for July attributes the partial depression to the restless international situation, especially our strained relations with Germany and the English embargo on so many products of vital interest to American business. It also mentions the serious effects of the shortage of dyestuffs which has caused some mills in other sections to close. It is the feeling of most trade papers that general business will improve with the usual winter impetus and the passing of the international clouds.

THE IBERIAN

The positive report of American Consul Frost on the sinking of the Iberian removes the last doubt that the steamer tried to escape after being ordered to stop by a German submarine and her destruction seems to be in accordance with international law. Even though some American lives were lost, therefore, it would seem that our government has no just grievance against Germany in this instance. This incident proves, however, that Germany can comply with the American demands as to visit and search when so disposed. If Germany may legitimately sink any vessel that tries to escape after being hailed, there is little excuse for submarine attacks without warning.

With vacations as with almost everything else, many men have many minds. One goes to a beach resort, swims for hours daily, dances every evening, falls in love two or three times a day and leads a strenuous life all round; another goes into the quiet country, lays in a hammock waiting for the call to meals, pores over a book at intervals and patronizes the bed liberally. Both come back satisfied. If there is any moral in the contrast it is that most vacations are matters of mind. Pawtucketville cannot complain that it has been ignored by our present governing body. First of all there was a bridge that fell down before it was put up and now it is the contagious hospital. The strange part of the matter is that the rest of the city is in no wise envious over either favor.

President Hustis of the B. and M. says the road has made a gain of two millions over 1914. There are no dissenting voices in the general vote of congratulation.

SEEN AND HEARD

There are a number of cures for the dissatisfied boy, but the best and quickest is to allow him to run away with a circus.

"Don't marry a woman to supply you with a home," says Lucille Buckleberry. "If a wife can't furnish her husband with a home, what then, it is desired to ask, is the object in getting married?"

A REAL ACTOR
A lady was walking through the park recently, when two little boys, who were playing nearby, stopped her.

"Say lady," called out the elder of the two, "me kid brudder does fine imitating stunts. Give me a dime an' me will imitate 'chickens for you'."

"What will he do—grow?" queried the lady.

"Naw," replied the boy, "no cheap imitation like the man I saw 'Hell eat a worm'." National Monthly.

A QUEER TIME TO ROAST
Two men sat on the river bank fishing. One had a bite and in the excitement he fell into the water. The other fished while his struggle, but did nothing to aid him.

"I can't swim!" cried the man in the water. "He went under, and when he came up he shouted again: 'I can't swim!'"

The man on the bank watched him with languid interest.

"The man in the water sank again. When he came up he gasped: 'I can't swim!'"

"Well my friend," commented the man on the bank, "this is a queer time to be boasting about it."—Tit-Bits.

HER REWARD
The cook for a well known Seattle family left, and no other could be obtained. So the lady of the house did the cooking herself, with such satisfactory results that she decided to keep her husband gave her a beautiful set of scales as a token of his appreciation of the good dinners he had enjoyed.

"This is the most one of the wife's tricks to act accordingly when her cook quit suddenly. Addressing her husband she said:

"Well the cook is gone and I'm not going to bother to get another. I'm going to do the cooking myself, deary. You heard what Mr. So-and-so said, 'You'll get a long black veil'."—National Monthly.

AND HAS NINE LIVES
Mrs. Flint came for a visit to her sister's home in Pawtucketville, and her little niece was delighted to see her.

"What became of the black kitten that you had when I was here before, deary?" asked Mrs. Flint.

"Why, don't you know?" asked Elsie much surprised.

"I haven't heard a word," replied the aunt. "Was he poisoned?"

"No," said Elsie. "And now I should like to fall in the world."

"Well," said Mrs. Flint, "I can't guess, deary. What became of him?"

"He grew into a cat," said Elsie. Exchange.

A sad and needy individual gained admission to the offices of one of the city's best known legal firms, says the New York Weekly, and at last somehow penetrated to the sanctum of the senior partner.

"Well," asked the lawyer, "what do you want?"

The visitor was nothing if not frank. "Half a dollar," he said boldly.

The man's unusual demeanor caught the lawyer's curiosity.

"There you are," he said handing out the money. "And now I should like to have you tell me how you came to fall so low in the world."

The visitor laughed. "All my 'yours' are explained. I had counted on inheriting something from my uncle, but when he died he left all he had to an orphan asylum."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

STAY ON THE FARM

The country boy is not migrating to the city as fast as he did. It is beginning to dawn on him that when he drops the raising of food products, he is selling out his interest in a commodity that is rapidly rising in price. Nobody ever advanced in life on that principle.—Lawrence Eagle.

LATE WAR NEWS

guned fighting of the Russians to the northwest of Warsaw has proved so effective that the German tide seems to have been held up, while to the south Field Marshal von Mackensen's forces pushing north from Lublin are being badly battered.

About the only Austro-German progress chronicled on the vast semi-circular front in the east is toward Riga, in the extreme north and before Ivan-gorod.

Warsaw still holds out and the hope that the Polish capital may yet be saved is becoming stronger throughout Russia, France and Great Britain.

The German press notes the pause in the Teutonic offensive and explains that, with the daily lengthening of communications the problem of transport and reinforcements becomes more complicated, which accounts for the delay. At the same time the efficacy of the Russian rear guard blows is not ignored by the newspapers. The German emperor and his consort, heretofore reported on their way to Warsaw for a triumphant entry have had to postpone the completion of their trip.

From Warsaw itself comes the optimistic prediction that if the city is able to endure a week longer, and the despatch was written four days ago—the evacuation may be avoided. Though thousands of civilians have fled, life in the beleaguered capital is pictured as fairly normal.

The British empire observed with prayer today the anniversary of the declaration of war. The scene being held in London and in the provinces and throughout the dominions and colonies.

SUMMARY OF TODAY'S WAR NEWS
A Russian official statement from Petrograd claims continued and successful resistance to the efforts of German armies to cut off Warsaw. There has been severe fighting with very heavy losses on both sides. The Germans in Poland have been informed with troops brought from France.

Enormous Efforts
This report refers to the "enormous efforts" of the Germans to dislodge the Russians from their positions on the Narva river north of Warsaw. On the Pissa and Skwa rivers, farther to the northeast, the Russians have been attacked by the "entire German army" reinforced with men brought from France. The Germans, however, met defeat in this sector. The battle for the crossing of the Narva near Novgorod has not yet even begun.

Russian Success
This official statement claims a Russian success near the mouth of the Skwa, where the Germans had brought their reinforcements. They are at present endeavoring to break through northeast of Ostrolenka.

The German admiral is still without official reports on the destruction of the British steamer Iberian and no

SELECTING YOUR CAR

PROMINENT AUTO MFR. GIVES VIEWS ON THINGS TO BE DEMANDED BY AUTO BUYERS

The president of a large automobile company expresses in an interesting way the things he believes should be considered in selecting a car.

What things in a motor car give it its value? First of all, I should say that the average prospective buyer looks upon the car he is inspecting as a unit. He will go into detail after a little. The first sensation when he sees it must leave an indelible impression. If it does not, he will not be interested in it. He will rarely buy that particular car—no matter how logical and convincing may be the subsequent sales arguments in the car's favor.

First Impressions Are Important

Manufacturers realized the importance of this first impression. They know that when a prospect gives a car the "once over" on that "once over" depends whether or not he will take the trouble to let the car tell its own real story in actual performance. Obviously, everybody has a right to demand eye-appeal and beauty in a motor car, independent of what that motor car may be able to do in actual performance. If the lines of a car do not appeal to you, I should say that you should stop right there, because no matter how good a car may be, if it does not appeal to you as being beautiful you will never grow to like it—no matter how faithful it may be mechanically.

But most cars are good looking.

Buyer Hates Demands on Questions

After you are satisfied that the car looks well, you are ready to analyze it more seriously. If you want to facilitate the investigation, suppose you systematize the questions that a car must answer for you before you make it your own. Here are the fifteen standard questions on which the shrewd buyer usually demands an answer.

Does it look well?
Does it sit well?
Does it ride well?

Does it dodge well in traffic?
Does it climb well?
Does it hold well on the down hill?
Does it sound well?
Does it make the most of its fuel?
Does it keep cool?
Does it save tires and avoid wear?
Does it feel good to ride in it?
Does it give all its passengers equal comfort?

Is it priced right?
Is the company behind it strong and capable of backing its guarantee?

Woman Should Judge of Design

Don't take your own judgment on the car's looks—a man's judgment on matters of beauty are not always as dependable as a woman's. You have some woman in your family whose judgment on body lines and color is worth more than yours. So ask her. Ask her, too, about question number two—she'll tell you whether the upholstery and the tilt of the seats and the general interior feel of the car appeals to her. She will also tell you whether it rides to her satisfaction.

Right there, do you know that there has been a sudden and new standard of luxury recently created in motor cars? What was considered easy riding a year ago is no longer accepted. Actually the way in which automobile builders have conquered bumps and jars and road vibration will be a revelation to you the first time you ride in one of the best new type motor cars.

New Cars Respond Rapidly

And the same intense improvement is evident in the new alertness in traffic. The car dodges around more quickly. It is safer, surer and more self-sufficient. The motor does business instantly, and the clutch, brake and transmission co-ordinate so well that the whole action of the car becomes what the doctor would call spontaneous or sub-conscious. The point is that the car does things so quickly that they are done before you have time to figure out how they are done. Make the car your own show you that it is capable of acting instantly, both with clutch and brake—and that it is graceful and smooth and pleasant about it.

Still climbing power is unmistakable—so is the lack of it. You should not have to shift gears any more on the majority of the so-called bad hills.

And the car should accelerate all the way up and give you a feeling of reserve power. The other questions can be answered either yes or no by the car itself—except the last two which deal with price and the character of the company behind the car. On these two points you will have to draw on your own knowledge of the automobile industry and of mechanical engineering.

New Ford Announcement

The latest Ford announcement appearing on The Sun auto page will no doubt interest pretty nearly everyone. For the past week Lowell people have been awaiting this announcement. Announcements from this company are always of importance because of the price reduction and profit sharing customs.

This week's announcement indicates a reduction in price of about $50. The specifications for the new cars have not as yet been made known to Mr. Rochette, proprietor of the Lowell Motor Mart, the establishment holding the agency for the well known and popular Fords. Ford owners should read the announcement carefully, particularly the portion dealing with the profit sharing riders which the company issues. These are good for a stated amount in cash when properly endorsed and sent in under the specified conditions.

Mr. Rochette expects a great rush of business with the advent of the new models. All information may be obtained from the Lowell Motor Mart, telephone 472-15. The general business of the company has been exceedingly brisk.

Howard Street Garage

Some bargains in used cars are offered in an advertisement on this page by the Howard Street garage. Mr. H. S. Girard, proprietor of that well known establishment, said that these cars are guaranteed to be in first class condition in every way, having been thoroughly overhauled. There is a Ford touring car, model 1913, and a 1910 Chalmers, both desirable motors. In addition, Mr. Girard also has for sale Ford bodies, a touring and a roadster model. The garage is receiving a great amount of repair work and the force of expert auto men is kept continually busy. A complete line of supplies and equipment is always on hand to meet the demand of motorists. The cars offered for sale may be inspected at the garage at any time.

Red Arrow Motor Supply

The Red Arrow Motor Supply, the proprietor of which is Mr. A. G. Bourke, in its fifth week as a business organization, is progressing most remarkably. Mr. Bourke started as the writer today that his business since opening has increased constantly each week. The efficiency of the repair work at this establishment has been recognized by a large number of motorists and the result is their constant patronage. Mr. Bourke placed on the local market the Safety First steering device for Ford cars, and it met with instant and pronounced success. The device is a simple one but highly effective in keeping the car in the road and preventing accidents. It may be seen at the Red Arrow.

V. A. French Auto Livery

Mr. V. A. French, proprietor of the French Auto Livery at 350 Moody street, announces a brisk and flourishing business. Recently Mr. French took a large party on a most enjoyable two-day auto trip through the mountains. The party made excellent time and not a single accident or discomfort marred the pleasure of the trip. Mr. French employs the finest six-cylinder cars and is ready to extend auto service, local or long trips, to any one desiring a delightful outing.

Sawyer Carriage Company

One of the busiest auto establishments in Lowell at the present time is the automobile branch of the Sawyer Carriage company in Worthen street. This company specializes in overhauling, painting and repairing. Tops and springs are made and repaired. The Sawyer company has a local agency for the well known Firestone tires and finds a large demand for them.

Boston Auto Supply

Mr. Joe McGarry of the Boston Auto Supply company of Bridge street announces today a demonstration of "Lustre-Spray," a liquid for cleaning and polishing automobiles. This demonstration will continue throughout the week. Motorists who will bring their cars to the Boston Auto station will be shown the effectiveness of "Lustre-Spray" in a free trial application.

Between opening time and noon on Monday last the Boston Auto Supply received 21 tires to be vulcanized. During the day enough vulcanizing business came in to keep the force of repair men busy throughout the entire week. This will give one an idea of the business of the company.

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

EDITED BY GEORGE H. ROBERTSON

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday Mr. George H. Robertson, America's foremost automobile authority, will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions or problems they may wish to have answered. Such questions will receive attention in due time. Address all communications: Automobile Editor, The Lowell Sun, 350 Moody street, Lowell, Mass. Enclose the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Lowell, Mass., July 17, 1915.

Dear Sir:

I have a Buick model 35 and am having trouble with the ignition. In starting the engine on battery and the turning switch over to magneto she will run, but when I try to advance spark she seems to miss. When I comes to a stop. The engine will run with advanced spark using battery as current.

Automobile Editor: Please send me an early reply and thank you in advance.

I am respectfully,

J. A.

The trouble undoubtedly lies in the breaker box of the magneto. You will find that the contact points are set in such a position that when the magneto is advanced, the contact points break the wrong time. Would suggest that the timing of the magneto too be gone over and the breaker points properly adjusted.

If all of low fire test or too much of the proper oil is used the excess lubricant will burn in the combustion chamber and while the heat will vaporize the volatile constituents a certain amount of solid matter, which is practically pure carbon, will be deposited on the top of the piston and the cylinder head and around the valves. These deposits are also augmented by road dust and other foreign matter which in through the carburetor. If the mixture is too rich, the excessive fuel used will also deposit carbon.

An engine in which the carbon deposits are excessive is apt to overheat readily, lose power and knock just as though a bearing were loose. The condition of the interior of the cylinder may be easily ascertained by removing a spark plug or valve chamber cap which permits one to examine the interior of the combustion chamber.

Automobile Editor:

In descending a long, steep hill, will you please advise me as to the best way to handle the car on a grade of this sort?

Ans. When descending a steep hill it is well to release the clutch and throw the top of the piston and the cylinder head and around the valves. These deposits are also augmented by road dust and other foreign matter which in through the carburetor. If the mixture is too rich, the excessive fuel used will also deposit carbon.

An engine in which the carbon deposits are excessive is apt to overheat readily, lose power and knock just as though a bearing were loose. The condition of the interior of the cylinder may be easily ascertained by removing a spark plug or valve chamber cap which permits one to examine the interior of the combustion chamber.

Automobile Editor:

Will you tell me what is the most important part of a motor car to lubricate. Your advice will be appreciated.

Ans. The power plant is the most important part of the automobile chassis and in order to obtain continued efficient operation without overheating or diminution of power it is necessary

Automobile Editor:

In climbing a grade, what should a driver observe in regard to shifting gears? It is puzzling sometimes to know just when to change.

Ans. If the engine begins to labor when in high gear and opening the throttle more does not reduce an acceleration of car speed it is an indication that the resistance is becoming too great for the amount of power available and it is necessary to shift to a lower ratio.

Automobile Editor:

Please let me know if when the connections leading from the accelerator to the carburetor are loose, more gasoline is consumed than when connections are tight.

Ans. Loose carburetor connections do not tend to increase the consumption.

Automobile Editor:

tion of gasoline. These loose connections tend to make an uncertain operation of the carburetor control, and in order to have the perfect feel of the motor, all the connections must be tight.

Automobile Editor:

Can you tell why tires are usually the same size on a car?

Ans. It is common practice to make the front and rear wheels the same size on most cars, because there is very little difference possible between the front and rear shoes with the average weight distribution. If two sizes are used, one must carry two spare casings and two different sizes of inner tubes to make satisfactory repairs. If the casings are the same size the front tires may be used to replace the weaker rear shoes, and these members in turn transferred to the front wheels after a car has been in operation for a time. Rear tires invariably wear faster than front ones, so that after they have worn to a point where they are considered worn, these wheels they may have ample strength for the lighter duties at the front end of the car and the front tires, which are in better condition, may be placed on the rear wheels.

Automobile Editor:

I have a Maxwell Model E 1910 touring car. In four months I have put in three new sets of equalizing piston pump gears and case. Could the trouble be in the multiple disc clutch? Or in the handling, or is this a weakness of the transmission design? I have been running the clutch in medium cylinder oil. What would you advise?

Automobile Editor:

Ans. I do not believe that your trouble is due to faulty design. A clutch which takes hold too suddenly places an undue strain on all driving parts, causing trouble. Would advise the use of an oil mixture containing one part kerosene to three parts of light oil. Clean clutch thoroughly first with gasoline.

TO CALL OUT WORKERS IN STRIKE

TEVANT BLOWER WORKS UNLESS OFFER IS MADE

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Commissioner John B. Moffitt of the United States department of commerce and labor arrived in Boston yesterday to act as federal conciliator in the strike of nearly 1000 machinists and other workers at the Becker Milling Machine Co. of which ex-Gov. Foss is president and principal owner.

The state board of arbitration has failed to date in arranging a conference with Mr. Foss, and the union leaders issued an ultimatum late yesterday afternoon that unless the board meets him and secures some definite proposition for an adjustment of the strike on a hit in Northford yesterday. Workmen will recover.

GETS DRUG IN LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 4.—William Harding of Boston, accused of being the partner of a suit of clothes from an unknown person, told the court yesterday that he came here recently for the last six months to buy morphine because he could get it four or five times cheaper than in Boston.

He refused to say who sold him the drug and he was held in $2000 bail pending further investigation by the police. The larceny charge against Connors was dismissed.

MUST PROCURE LICENSE

Persons who maintain warehouses for the storage of second-hand furniture are required to procure a license therefor from the governor and council, and to give bond in such sum as may be required by them, according to an opinion given by Atty. Gen. Atwell to George C. Neal, acting chief of the state police.

Chapter 88 of the revised laws provides that the governor and council may license any person or corporation to engage in business of public warehousing, but this year the legislature, by passing chapter 93 of the general laws, provided that "whoever keeps and maintains a public warehouse for storage of goods, wares and merchandise without procuring a license and giving a bond shall be punished by a fine of $1000 and shall further be restrained and enjoined by the supreme judicial court from maintaining such a public warehouse."

The question has arisen whether the new law applies to those who store only second-hand furniture and the attorney general decides that it does so apply, for the reason that in the act passed this year a further provision that the words "public warehouse" shall mean "any building or part of a building kept and maintained for a storage of goods, wares and merchandise, as business." This phraseology, he says, is sufficiently broad to include all goods, wares and merchandise.

Y. M. C. A. SUMMER CAMP

The past month at the Y. M. C. A. summer camp at Nabasset pond was the best in the eight years the camp has been established and more than eighty boys have enjoyed the privileges and opportunities for a healthful vacation afforded by the well equipped summer resort, so near to home.

Every boy has learned how to swim and the majority have become proficient that they are jumping and diving from the 20 foot stand of the "Shoot the Chutes."

Tonight a minstrel show will be given and the affair promises to be a grand success. The end men will be H. A. Maxfield, Roland Fells, Joseph Brainerd, Samuel Babigan, Frank Bale and Augustus Dutton. The soloists will be Gordon and Elliott Knapp, Brainerd, Remington, Hugh Goodrich and Ralph Davis.

ROXBURY HOUSE RANSACKED

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—A burglary in the home of Charles Gallagher, 255 Walnut avenue, Roxbury, was reported to the police last night.

The robbery occurred between Saturday and Monday morning, while the Gallagher family was at its summer home at Nantasket, and was discovered when Mr. Gallagher came up Monday. The police have withheld the facts, hoping for a clue to the burglars.

Just how much was taken cannot be estimated at present, as the house was turned topsy-turvy by the thieves, and much of value had been taken to the Gallagher summer home.

REJECTS U. S. DEMANDS

Great Britain Cannot Agree to Abandonment of Neutral Port Blockade—Suggests Arbitration

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Great Britain's replies to the latest American representations against interference with neutral commerce reject entirely the contention that the orders-in-council are illegal and justify the British course as being wholly within international law.

"Unsustainable either in point of law or upon principles of international equity," is the British reply to the American protest against the blockade of neutral ports, with an invitation to submit to international arbitration any cases in which the United States is dissatisfied with the action of British prize courts.

Great Britain's reply embodied in two notes, one supplemental, was made public here last night and issued simultaneously by agreement between the two governments. With the notes was made public also the correspondence over the American steamer Neches seized by the British while en route from Rotterdam to the United States with goods of German origin. All the correspondence aggregates 7000 words.

Changed conditions of warfare, the British note contends, require a new application of the principles of international law. The advent of the submarine, the airship and the alleged atrocities by German troops in Belgium are cited as justification for the exercise of extreme measures.

The blockade is justified on the contention that the universally recognized principle of international law is that a belligerent is entitled to cut off "by effective means the sea-borne commerce of his enemy."

The note reiterates that Great Britain will continue to apply the orders complained of, although not without every effort to avoid embarrassment to neutrals. The advent of the submarine, the airship and the alleged atrocities by German troops in Belgium are cited as justification for the exercise of extreme measures.

Adaptation of Old Principles. In the general reply to the American representations against the orders-in-council, Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister, addressing Ambassador Page, begins by expressing the hope that he may be able to convince the administrator in Washington that the measures we have announced are not only reasonable and necessary in themselves, but constitute no more than an adaptation of the old principles of blockade to the peculiar circumstances with which we are confronted.

"I need scarcely dwell," wrote Sir Edward, "on the obligations incumbent upon the allies to take every step in their power to overcome their common enemy in view of the shocking violation of the recognized rules and principles of civilized warfare of which the British are guilty during the present struggle."

Sir Edward then refers to atrocities in Belgium, poisoning of wells in German Southwest Africa, use of poisonous gases against the allied troops in Flanders and finally to the sinking of the Lusitania and other vessels, and concludes that it is that we should leave unavailing no justifiable method of defending ourselves.

Coming down to the question of the allied blockade of neutral ports, the note continues:

"In the various notes which I have received from your excellency the right of a belligerent to establish a blockade of the enemy's ports is admitted, a right which has obviously no value save in so far as it gives power to a belligerent to cut off the sea-borne exports and imports of his enemy."

"The contention which I understand the United States government now puts forward is that, if the belligerent is so circumstanced that his commerce can pass through adjacent neutral ports as easily as through ports in their own territory, his opponent has no right to interfere and must restrict his measures of blockade in such a manner as to leave such avenues of commerce still open to his adversary. This is a contention which his majesty's government feels unable to accept and which seems to them unsustainable either in point of law or upon principles of international equity."

"They are unable to admit that a belligerent violates any fundamental principle of international law by application of a blockade in such a way as to cut off the enemy's commerce with foreign countries through neutral ports. If the circumstances render such an application of principles of blockade the only means of making it effective."

"The government of the United States, indeed, intimates its readiness to take into account the great changes which have occurred in the conditions and means of naval warfare since the rules hitherto governing legal blockade were formulated, and recognizes that the form of close blockade, with its cordon of ships in the immediate offing of the blockaded ports, is no longer practicable in the face of an enemy possessing the means and opportunity to make an effective defence by the use of submarines, mines and aircraft."

Conform to Essence of War. "The only question, then, which can

Where proof of enemy ownership would afford no evidence of such origin or destination, we are not in the practice of detaining the goods."

Sir Edward's note closes with the observation that "figures of recent months show that the increased opportunities afforded by the war for American commerce have more than compensated for the loss of the German and Austrian markets."

We shall continue to apply these measures with every desire to occasion the least possible amount of inconvenience to persons engaged in legitimate commerce."

OFFICIALS PREPARING ANSWER. WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—State department officials today were preparing the answer which the United States will make to Great Britain's replies to the latest American representations against interference with neutral commerce.

Great Britain in her notes, published today, refuses to accept the American contention that the orders in council are illegal and justifies the British course as being wholly within international law.

Great Britain, it is declared, will continue to apply the orders in council, but with every effort to avoid embarrassment to neutrals.

An answer to the British notes ably will be forthcoming, data for which has been in course of preparation for some time.

The German note regarding the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye probably will be given out late today for publication tomorrow morning.

Every Day Etiquette

"When invited to a friend's dinner, how long should I remain after the meal is over?" asked Ned.

"An hour or even two would be all right to stay, especially as you say it is an informal one," advised his sister.

"When three girls of a family are invited to a reception and only one is able to attend, should the cards of the other two be mailed to reach the hostess the day of the reception?" asked Ned.

"You can either mail them or have the woman who does attend take the cards of the two remaining at home, with her," said her aunt.

"Will you tell me if it is proper to give a clergyman a fee for baptizing one's child and when shall the money be given him?" asked Mr. Younghouse.

"Unless the clergyman is a relative or intimate friend, it is quite proper, but not compulsory, to send him a fee a short time after the day of the ceremony," said his experienced father.

"What is the proper thing to do when one learns that a friend is going abroad?" asked Ethel.

"One should send the friend a steamship letter, a basket of fruit, a box of candy, or an appropriate gift," said her sister.

"When a man takes a girl to the theatre, is it necessary for him to buy her a box of candy?" inquired Tom.

"No, it is not necessary. If he wishes to send or take her something, he might buy her a bouquet of her favorite flowers," advised his mother.

"Is it proper to acknowledge a wedding announcement, and if so, how?" asked Andrew.

"It is not necessary, but it is always courteous to either call upon the bride or write a note of congratulation to the bride or the groom," replied her sister.

He was knocked to the street and sustained injuries about the head which were treated at St. John's hospital, where he was taken in the ambulance.

BRIDEGROOM MISSING

DISAPPEARED ON HIS WEDDING DAY—BRIDE-TO-BE SAYS JEWELRY AND CASH ALSO GONE

MANCHESTER, Conn., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Peter Goldrick, wealthy owner of Wappling farm, and local deputy sheriff, are on the lookout for Samuel Yuskas, salesman, now believed to be in Boston.

Yuskas, who was scheduled to become the husband of Mrs. Goldrick yesterday, is missing and Mrs. Goldrick alleges that a considerable sum of money and jewelry have disappeared.

Less than a month ago Yuskas, said to be a member of the Polish aristocracy, wooed and won pretty Mrs. Goldrick. They agreed that the latter's extensive tobacco farm could be developed. The wedding day was set, but Yuskas disappeared on the third day of the celebration. So did a horse and buggy belonging to his prospective bride. Horse and buggy were later recovered. The entire bridegroom returned was penniless and was forgiven.

The belated wedding ceremony was scheduled in a local church yesterday. Instead of visiting the altar, Mrs. Goldrick consulted Sheriff John F. Sheridan, who has consulted with Boston authorities.

The Goldrick home is said to be haunted, having been the scene of a sensational shooting and burglary.

50 PERISH IN FLOOD

hundreds of dollars; scores of houses and dozens of factories swept away and the distress of homeless hundreds were the effects of an unprecedented storm which struck Erie and the immediate vicinity last night.

After almost an all-day rain a heavy thunder shower culminated in a cloudburst. For an hour residents along the course of Mill creek through the east center of the city watched the slow rise of the stream, due to a rainfall of nearly three inches in six hours.

At 5:15 the Cleveland dam, three miles above the city burst and a huge wall of water swept down through the city, carrying with it the homes of those who had waited until the last minute to leave.

Four blocks on either side of the stream, including State street, the main business artery of the city, were covered with a depth of from six inches to five feet.

Large Structures Swept Away

The Loomis wagon works and the Nelson Machine shop, each occupying nearly half a block, were the largest structures to be swept away.

Jarecki and Lovell wood working plants, two of the largest manufacturing in the city, were covered with fifteen feet of water.

Early this morning gas mains all over the city were cut off and telephone, street car and electric lighting services were paralyzed.

Poles Drugged Into Streets

Danger from falling high tension electric wires became apparent and the authorities threw a heavy guard of police and volunteers around the flooded section. Many poles, weighted with wires and undermined by the flood, dropped into the streets.

The charitable societies, the armory, hotel and hospital organized shelter clubs gave refuge to hundreds who saved by their own lives and a few meagre belongings. In the night danger of broken electric wires and the 25 mile current of the flood made rescue work extremely perilous and details of the drowning of a quarter of a hundred thought lost in the flood were brought back by John Higgins, who was the only one recovered at daylight. The life saving crews from the Lake Erie shore front, and the members of the naval militia have already started the search for others known to have been swept away.

Chief and Firemen Escape

The narrow escape of Fire Chief McMahon with four firemen in a successful attempt to rescue three women led to the report of their death but they jumped to safety from second story windows.

Only three serious accidents had been reported at the hospitals up to an early hour this morning.

Two would-be rescuers were struck by floating debris and their legs were broken, when a third was nearly drowned when the 14th street bridge was swept away.

Passenger Trains Stalled

The washing out of the main line of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania railroads stalled a dozen or more passenger trains here with no prospect of their departure for a couple of days.

The rush of water down State street flooded nearly every store on the thoroughfare and floating wreckage was added to the damage by smashing hundreds of display windows.

Throughout the night the terror of rain continued. Only the water with the debris and wreckage was prevented from doing much serious damage. Piles of debris on intersecting streets were heaped up 15 feet high in some cases and fifth washed into homes along the course of the stream caused perhaps the greatest damage.

A dozen of the largest houses in the city will be closed down for two or three weeks until the wreckage in the first floors can be cleared away.

Heroic Acts of Firemen

The story of Fireman Sherry and Bates stood out among the scenes of heroic acts. Taking a girl from her home on the bank, they started down the telephone pole which had entangled them to reach her when the house fell against the pole and all three were swept into the swift current. A block farther down the trio were pulled

SHOT HALTED PURSUER

WOULD-BE HOUSEBREAKER FIRED AT WILLIAM THOMPSON OF MALDEN AND ESCAPED

MALDEN, Aug. 4.—The Edgeworth district of this city was thrown into excitement early yesterday evening when a would-be housebreaker was discovered in the act of entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, 15-17 Julia street, and upon being pursued by Mr. Thompson, halted, drew a revolver and fired point blank at the latter. The shot did not take effect, but it stopped his pursuer and the burglar escaped.

The sound of the shot aroused the neighborhood and a squad of policemen and a posse of citizens hunted the locality for trace of the fugitive without success.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, who occupy the lower apartment of the two-family house, were seated upon their front piazza, and Mrs. Thompson walked to the door of the house to satisfy herself that her baby, who was in a rear room, was asleep. That was about 8:30. Mrs. Thompson was a shadow at the rear of the house and, peering around the corner, saw a man trying to force the back door. She screamed for her husband and the burglar, located over a fence and escaped to the street through an alley. The chase followed.

HOUSE-BROKEN INTO

he formerly lived in Lowell but about three years ago took to an adventurous life and has been travelling through the southern states ever since. He came to Lowell on a freight car Saturday night, he said, and went to the home of his grandfather, Warren L. Floyd, of Stevens street, with whom he formerly lived. There was nobody home, however, so the boys forced an entrance and remained in the house all night.

Yesterday while searching through a closet Libby came across a revolver which he purchased several years ago in a local store but never used. Believing that he could sell the gun and use the money to advantage, he decided to pawn it and was attempting to do so when he was caught.

He said the merchant from whom he purchased the weapon had his name and address and an attempt will be made to verify this before tomorrow morning.

While in the house one of Libby's companions, who gave his name as William F. Caven, stole a pair of clothing, the property of Mr. Floyd. He pleaded guilty this morning and was fined $10. Caven said he met Libby about a week ago in Albany, N. Y., and both came to this city looking for work.

There was no complaint against the third member of the party and after a brief examination he was allowed to depart and did so with all haste. The universal custom in districts now occupied by such patients upon their recovery, removal or death, in order that the germs remaining in the rooms might be destroyed and the danger of contagion diminished.

Dr. C. V. Chapin of Providence first protested against this practice, as the life of the germs outside the body was very brief and they were easily killed in the presence of light and air. The money spent in the disinfection of rooms was practically wasted.

He claimed further that this practice tended toward positive injury to the public health in creating a feeling of security which was unwarranted, since the ordinary household after disinfection of the room, felt that the danger of contagion was now definitely a thing of the past.

To the contrary, it has been established that the chief danger is with the recovered patient, as the bacteria find congenial surroundings only in the case of the patient's body, and in spite of all efforts to eradicate them and in spite of negative tests as to their presence, a certain proportion of those recovering from these infections become carriers.

The emphasis then should be laid upon care to be taken to avoid contact with the germs outside the body of the released patient rather than upon fear of infection from inanimate objects.

SIXTH REGIMENT

Board of Trade Members Will Visit Soldiers in Camp

The Sixth regiment, M. V. M., which goes into camp at Sandwich Saturday next will be visited the following Thursday by a delegation from the Lowell board of trade as an invitation of Maj. Colby T. Kittredge of the first battalion to spend a day at the camp grounds has been accepted by the officers of the regiment. Maj. Kittredge's invitation was approved by Col. Sweetser.

As the roads that separate Lowell from Sandwich are in excellent condition the trip will be made in automobiles furnished by members of the board. A distance of about 100 miles will have to be covered each way and an early start will be necessary, probably about 7 o'clock. On account of this no plans will be made to leave at a fixed time, but various members who volunteer the use of their automobiles will be asked to arrange with fellow members for places in their machines. Members who intend to make the trip are requested to notify Secretary Murphy before Wednesday of next week.

No special program has yet been arranged by the officers of the Sixth regiment to entertain the Lowellites. Upon their arrival the members will be treated to a dinner at the camp grounds. In the afternoon the tents and other camp equipment will be inspected and the various companies will undoubtedly go through military maneuvers. Some of the machines will probably start for Lowell early while a few are taking advantage of the opportunity to make two days' trip and will spend the night at Cape Cod.

The object of the trip is to show that the board of trade has a keen interest in the militia and to develop a friendly feeling between militiamen and members of the board of trade.

FUMIGATOR ABANDONED

BOARDS OF HEALTH FINDS THAT GERMS ARE KILLED BY LIGHT AND AIR

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Fumigation in residences after such diseases as diphtheria and scarlet fever has been abandoned by the board of health, except upon rare specific requests, according to an article published in the official monthly bulletin issued yesterday by Chairman Francis X. Mahoney.

The article reads: "Since the discovery that many diseases were caused by bacterial infection, it has become the universal custom in districts now occupied by such patients upon their recovery, removal or death, in order that the germs remaining in the rooms might be destroyed and the danger of contagion diminished.

Dr. C. V. Chapin of Providence first protested against this practice, as the life of the germs outside the body was very brief and they were easily killed in the presence of light and air. The money spent in the disinfection of rooms was practically wasted.

Shot the Rapids
Franklin, N. H., Aug. 3.
Jackson Palmer left here at 4.10 p.
m. after posting for Dick Sears for Hearst-Selig weekly. Palmer shot through the rapids at Franklin and the whole town turned out to see him.
It was a dare-devil stunt but as the water is higher than usual it was impossible to shoot any of the dams at the end of the rapids. People were with ropes in case his canoe turned over so that he could save himself by grasping the ropes, otherwise he would go over the dam to his death. Palmer sends regards and will be back in three days judging by the way he is going.
Dick Sears.

Camped in Penacook
Penacook, N. H., Aug. 3, 2.30 p. m.
This is Penacook at 2.30 p. m. If I can hold this clip I will reach Lowell Thursday about the time the mills get out. Would have made Concord tonight but waited for Dick Sears while he found me some "white water" to run. I'm going into the movies.
Jackson Palmer.

Collided with Stump
Early this afternoon the Sun heard from Mr. Palmer at a point between Concord and Manchester, where he was held up on account of slight injuries to his canoe. While proceeding along just below Concord he collided with a submerged tree stump, puncturing his canoe. He immediately put for the shore and got there before his canoe became tilted. Under the conditions of his agreement he must repair the canoe without assistance. He sent word that he will reach Manchester tonight and in the morning will start on the long home stretch.

that we started out with about 40 years ago to find our way through the confusion of commercial rights and wrongs. It is still burning bright and strong and we have been told that this light can be seen all over New England.

Times and temptations come not frequently when we could make money fast for a little while by putting out our light and selling goods of a cheapened quality on the strength of a standard reputation. These times and temptations come to every merchant.
They are like quicksands in the path and it is only by keeping the light burning strong and true that they may be passed over and overcome. A good light always shines straight ahead and an uphill path is safest in the darkness.

THE EASTLAND DISASTER
SEC. REDFIELD RESUMES INQUIRY
—TESTIMONY GIVEN ON WATER
BALLAST

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce resumed his inquiry into the steamer Eastland disaster today by questioning James Lee Ackerson, a government naval constructor from Washington, D. C.

"Water ballast is safe if the compartment holding it is filled. If the tank is partly empty the water shifts and the center of gravity changes and consequently the stability of the boat is reduced and its safety is lessened," said the witness.

Ackerson said he believed the Eastland's water ballast system safe if properly handled. He added that any vessel using water ballast required careful attention.

Secretary Redfield expected to adjoin his inquiry today and return to Washington after the federal grand jury's investigation is concluded.

RIGA, Aug. 4. via Petrograd and been transferred from Riga to Tula,

institutions are being mainly transferred to Tula, 157 miles northeast

Owing to the exodus of families, the shipping agencies are overworked and are refusing further orders for the agencies here and in interior places.

RUSSIAN EXPORTS
Coference at Washinton to Argue on Details to Remove Embargo

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A conference between officials of the United States and Russia to settle details of an agreement that will remove the Russian embargo against exports to this country was arranged today.

Commercial Attache Medizhkovsky will meet representatives of the state and commerce departments later in the week to frame a working plan
for proposals accepted by the Russian government under which all importations from Russia will be consigned to the secretary of the department of commerce to be distributed by him when he can secure guarantees satisfactory to the Russian embassy that the goods will not be re-exported to belligerent countries. It is probable that the details will be arranged and the plan placed in operation within two weeks.

The Russian ambassador in an official communication to the state department gave notice that the Russian minister of finance had accepted
the principle of the American proposal and that the embassy was ready to arrange the details. A detailed arrangement has been worked out by the foreign trade advisers of the state department and will be submitted to the Russian representatives and to department of commerce officials who will handle the shipments.

It is probable that the Russian representatives will insist that American importers receiving Russian goods file with the department of commerce a bond covering the value of the shipment to be held pending the consumption of the imported goods in this country. Such an arrangement will necessitate a large amount of administrative work in handling the business, but probably will be accepted by the state department officials.

LISBON, Friday, July 30, via Paris, Aug. 4, 12.40 p. m. (Delayed in trans-reports are current in the capital of no less than three separate revolutions in Portugal. Riots and assaults are of daily occurrence.

Political feeling has completely disorganized the army and clashes between royalists and republicans and other factions are frequent. Yesterday a quartermaster from the engineer's barracks shot and killed three sergeants of his regiment and then committed suicide. The sergents were members of a secret society known as the "White Ants," and had denounced the quartermaster as belonging to the republican faction which is accused of conspiring against the present government.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

Amateur baseball is in full swing nowadays and there are half a dozen teams which play usually a coring good game of ball. When we say "amateur" we use the term advisedly; for it is a patent fact that more than one among these teams carries men under pay—men who are professional ball players. Even gentlemen behind the Lawrence corporation team who started off with the best intentions in the world by establishing a real ball ground, carried in a recent game three or four professionals who never saw the inside of the Lawrence mills. To be sure the Lawrence team won this game; but aside from the men backing it with their money, notice how little evidence of enthusiasm on the part of the natural adherents of the team. 'Twas ever thus. The moment you introduce money into amateur baseball the game becomes secondary to the dollar and suffers. I never knew it to fail. A certain influential organization among young men of this city by the use of money, cards of membership and the introduction of money practically killed the game so far as this organization is concerned; and from being a leader in the promotion of clean baseball has sunk out of sight. If it ever revives interest in the game I trust it will be shown that it profited from its experience of three or four years ago.

No indeed, it's no crime to be a professional ball player providing he is a good one; but the question always comes up, that really, he cannot be of much class who demands pay in appearing with boys who work six days a week in the shops; for it is the observation of many that frequently he falls to outclass the team member whom he displaced; nor is it fair to the benched player who has always been ready to play his head off for his team. Money again!

Rudyard Kipling's Speech

Did you read what was published of Rudyard Kipling's speech which he delivered at Southport, Eng. recently? Of all the literature which I have read bearing upon the great war now going on I have read nothing that has impressed me so strongly nor have I seen a picture so powerfully and convincingly drawn of the objects that Germany is striving to attain. If Kipling is right then Germany's opponents are fighting for their very existence particularly England, who if Germany is the victor, would be subjected to untold outrage and indignities. Somehow these words of Kipling spoken to arouse the martial spirit in the hearts of Englishmen go farther and among American sympathizers with Germany may cause considerable perplexity. They might well ask of themselves some questions which had not occurred to them before.

The Best in Music

Rafael Joseffy, pianist, who died in New York not long since was one of the great artists of his time. Although born in Hungary in 1852 most of his life was spent in the United States and during these best years he gave unstintingly of the work that was in him for the propagation of the best in music. No European-born musician ever became a greater factor than he in instilling and developing the principles of pianoforte playing and none excelled him in mastery of his art. He was more than a teacher among his pupils—he was an inspiration. Intellectual in a high degree he ever laid stress upon the importance of the mental development of his pupils as a necessary part of their musical education. Hundreds of his former pupils attest the truth of his conceptions and the efficacy of his methods. Pasquale Tallarico, not unknown here, was Joseffy's private pupil for five years or more and he has told me something of his master's teaching methods and personal characteristics. Tallarico, who has much originality of his own, could scarcely fail to unconsciously absorb a certain degree of his teacher's style. This would be evident to anyone who had also heard Joseffy. To hear the pupil is to recall the pulse, the inclusive touch, the delicacy, the repose, the resolution, and the power of the master. The last time I heard Joseffy was years ago in Boston music hall where he appeared with the Theodore Thomas orchestra and played a Beethoven concerto. The impression which he made upon me is still felt; and I see him yet, the dominating figure of that great audience. For a few years Joseffy toured the country appearing in recital and with orchestra; but he disliked that sort of thing and mere money was the last thing he sought. After his retirement from concert work he associated himself with a New York school of music which, until his death became the scene of his real life work. Thus the concert stage lost one of its most brilliant ornaments, while the cause of music gained a great educator. Joseffy's first noted teacher was Bräuer who also taught Stephen Heller. He studied under Moscheles and Wenzel in Leipzig, with Tansig in Berlin for two years and later spent two summers with Liszt at Weimar. He came to the United States in 1879 and has since made New York his home. Fame came to him unsought; he cared nothing for it; and wealth (of money) could have been his from the simple stroke of his pen. With him his art was supreme—nothing else mattered. He was most happy in his retirement from the public gaze and never envied his brother artists in the glare of the footlights. He was a great artist and a great musician. His passing is a great loss to the world of music.

The Old Portsmouth

Perhaps the old sloop-of-war Portsmouth is not as famous as Old Ironsides or other war craft of olden times, but nevertheless she has figured in important work and was worthy a better fate than to be dismantled and sold as junk. In the Mexican war she took possession of San Francisco bay, Commodore Perry took her to Japan, which venture was the opening up of Japan's intercourse with Occidental peoples. She saw service in Chinese waters and compelled respect to be paid to her flag, and finally she shared in the operations of Farragut at New Orleans. Since the Civil war she has been employed in various capacities; but now at the good old age of 72 a grateful nation must see her burned to the water's edge. She was launched at Portsmouth and will soon be burned at Boston. It is doubtful if the poet, with all the genius and inspiration of an Oliver Wendell Holmes in his lines, could save her now. The old Portsmouth—sold for junk!

on trial beside a package of any other corn flakes on the market. The jury will bring in a verdict of "guilty"—guilty of being the finest corn flakes ever made.

The New Post Toasties are crisp and appetizing, with a true corn flavour; and they don't mush down when milk or cream is added.

But here's the real test. Take a handful, fresh from the package, and eat them without cream or milk. Mighty good, aren't they?

Notice the little "puffs" on each flake—a distinguishing characteristic—resulting from the new method of cooking and toasting, which also brings out and enhances the wonderful, true corn flavour.

Your Grocer has the New Post Toasties. Try them and bring in your verdict—

WARDEN MAKES STATEMENT
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing who in speeches at Columbia university and at the prison Monday said he expected to be removed shortly, but declared that he "would come back" yesterday made public letters he has written to Gov. Whitman and Superintendent of Prisons Riley.

Mr. Osborne, in his letter to the governor, replied to the statement that others than he should receive credit for the new system at Sing Sing by saying the convicts deserve the chief credit for the improvements and extended privileges.

Mr. Osborne stated he had prepared a temporary dormitory at Sing Sing to stop the practice of "doubling-up" cells in cells. He added that he was not allowed to use the dormitory, for a reason he did not know, and was thus forced to continue this "barbarous" practice.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

CHARLIE CHAPLIN CONTEST
All aboard for the Charlie Chaplin contest. Everybody is talking about it, and while 2900 attended on the opening night, which was held in the Kasino on last Friday evening, July 30, this Friday, which is the second night of the contest bids fair to surpass the attendance of last. The management announces that on this Friday evening, to give everybody an opportunity to see the contestants at least once they are going to reduce the admission price to 10 cents. Owing to the large expense attached to the contest they will be forced to charge 35c a figure for dancing during the evening. They are also allowing for the admission price two free dances. The contestants report they are all hard at work practicing, trying to do the best of their ability to imitate that great comedian, Charlie Chaplin. The result of their efforts will speak for itself on Friday evening. On Friday evening ten of the contestants will be dropped, leaving only five, and on the final evening of the contest the lucky winners of the three prizes will be chosen.

In addition to the contest the management has secured a big attraction in ten cabaret girls who will furnish a delightful entertainment. These girls are local young ladies. Who are they? That's the mystery. A complete and up-to-date program has been arranged and the very latest numbers will be rendered in a most pleasing manner.

Today is the last day of the appearance of dainty Marguerite Clark in her latest comedy success, "Seven Sisters." Besides being a sparkling comedy with a most original plot, "Seven Sisters" brims before the audience some of the customs of the Hungarian which are traditional. The acting of the cast is exceptionally fine. Miss Clark being supported by well chosen actors. The role of Mici, the witty daughter, is interpreted by Marguerite Clark, and in this role she is more winsome than ever. Do not fail to see "Blue Blood and Yellow," the seventh episode of "Who Pays?" which is also shown today for the last time. Folks who are in the very humorous Tom Wilson comedy will also be shown today. For the next three days of the week the principal attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre will be Mary Pickford in her mighty triumph, "Rags," which is a five-act Paramount picture of a girl who raises herself from the lowest social strata up to the level of the man she loves and whom she marries. In this play Mary Pickford, who, by the way, has not appeared for some time, will attract many admirers.

B. F. KELTH'S THEATRE

No more charming little actress has appeared in moving pictures than is Mary Miles Minter, who, twice today, will be seen at the B. F. Kelth theatre, in "Always in the Way." Miss Minter, who is barely 17 years old, created a furore two years ago by her acting of the little character of "The Littlest Rebel." Since that time she has achieved other exceptional parts, and was personally selected by the song writer, Charles K. Harris, to play the part of "Dorothy" in the filmization of his famous ballad. Miss Minter is pretty and graceful, and in her every movement there is the sign of youth. Harris' song furnishes plenty of opportunity for dramatic treatment. The six parts of the photo-play literally team with good things. Among these is the attack of the maddened Zulu warriors on the home of the African missionaries. Throwing their blazing spears, they soon set fire to the thatched roof, and then kill the missionaries. "Dorothy," their adopted daughter, is pursued, but is saved by a big negro who has been converted. These are stirring scenes, but they are only two of many which go to make up this Metro production, one of the best yet seen at this theatre. There are in addition four shorter pictures, including an Ade table and a Chaplin comedy Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow will appear in "The Second in Command."

OWL THEATRE

The feature picture shown at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow is "The Failure," a Mutual master picture, with John Emerson assisted by the well known Relevance players. "The Failure" is full of graphic, throbbing realism, overwhelming in its pathos and vivid appeal and dramatic in plot and action. The hero of the play, which sets a new standard in the art of moving picture production, is a newspaper reporter, but one of the lofty ideals and a burning purpose. How he avenges the disgrace of a young girl and himself forms the most stirring play ever written for Mutual. Five other films will also be shown—a ten-reel Mutual show, today and tomorrow only. "Up from the Depths" is the feature for Friday and Saturday.

ROYAL THEATRE

Anita Stewart as Vitaphone's "God-dess" has created one of the sublimest characters ever presented in motion pictures since its invention. Possessing an abundance of good looks and dimples, as sweet as a May morn, she stands far above the average actress—in one of the most charming, fascinating, awe-inspiring roles ever conceived by man. Assisted by talented, manly and good looking Earle Williams, who is receiving honours throughout the entire breadth and length of the states, "The Goddess," seventh episode of the continued romance, will be shown at the Royal today and tomorrow, along with a delectable program of new and up-to-date comedies and dramas. The "Ham and Bud" comedy is especially recommended for the blues.

CANOBIE LAKE

Miss Alice Hagley of Lowell, who for a long time appeared in engagements at local theatres, is one of the many stars appearing in Ben Loring's Ugly Musical Revue at Canobie Lake Park theatre. At this week and hours of her local friends are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy her in her new field of endeavor. Miss Hagley has developed into one of the most talented musical comedy stars, and besides that old time ability of handling her songs in their most pleasing way, she displays a number of beautiful costumes that must excite the envy and admiration of all her feminine sisters. Miss Hagley's rise in the world of musical comedy has been rapid and unusual. A few years ago she was appearing in the many picture theatres as illustrated song singer where her pleasing voice was heard by one of the talent recouts of the Homan's Musical Revue, who quickly made arrangements for her appearance with one of the Homan's companies. Her quick adaptability to this style of entertainment soon won for her the more prominent parts, and when Ben Loring was arranging for his present tour he saw the advisability of securing this talented little girl and she was offered a leading role, which was accepted. The Musical Revue acclimates with fun, melody and pretty dances. It is built on a far more elaborate scale than the average musical show of this kind and in all of the entire cast of 12 there is no one artist who is not well above par either in singing, dancing or the creation of pure merriment. At the dance hall this evening the management has arranged for the appearance of the famous Elite quartet, who will sing during and between dances.

At the theatre Friday evening the management will offer a Charlie Chaplin contest, with prizes for the best imitation of the famous comedian.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS COMMISSION REPORTS TO CONVENTION ON MANY PHASES OF PREJUDICE

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 4.—The supreme council of the Knights of Columbus, in convention here, received last night the report of the commission on religious prejudices which expressed the belief that "American fair play will prevail over religious bigotry."

The report, presented by Col. P. H. Callahan, chairman, expressed satisfaction for aid by the general public mention was made of the fairness shown by The Associated Press and newspapers in general regarding religious matters.

Seven recommendations were attached to the report. The first of these declared a principal cause for prejudice against Catholics arose from an erroneous belief among non-Catholics that we owe such allegiance to the pope as is incompatible with proper allegiance to our country.

"We should lose no proper occasion to declare the position of Catholics," stated the report, "and the teachings of the church on this matter, namely, that while Catholics acknowledge the pope to be supreme in spiritual matters, they do not hold that he has any authority in civil matters. If any spiritual authority were to direct us to do any act contrary to the rights of free citizens, or the welfare of society, we would be bound to disobey."

The report declared that Catholics uphold and support the public school system, but feel that religious instruction is necessary, and therefore bear an extra burden for private schools. An opinion was expressed that in time all general forms of religion will be taught in free schools.

The report condemns the action of politicians in raising religious issues in campaigns, as well as the activities of quasi-political societies in discriminating against persons of any faith. It was recommended that the commission be made permanent.

The report of the secretary stated $1,921,212.04 was collected during the past year, and that the assets of the order exclusive of special funds, are nearly $6,000,000. There are now nearly 350,000 members.

AMERICAN MARINES VIGOROUSLY PUTTING DOWN HAITIAN REVOLT

MARINES OFF TO HAITI

Acting vigorously on his instructions from Washington to restore order in Haiti, Rear Admiral Caperton has sent a special commission from Port au Prince to Cape Haitien, 160 miles distant, to bring about the disbanding of the revolutionary forces in the northern part of the republic. This commission will request Guillaume government, to return to Port au Prince with the members of the commission in order to join in conferences to promote order in Haiti. Admiral Caperton notified Secretary Daniels that such action has been taken. An earlier dispatch from the admiral to the navy department showed that the American force of marines and bluejackets is proceeding vigorously with the work of disarming the natives, but while the Haitian soldiers are turning in arms to the naval authorities, many arms are being secretly retained. There can be read between the lines of the messages received from Admiral Caperton full confirmation of statements made in special dispatches from Washington, which stated that the American expeditionary force in Haiti will remain ashore there until order has been fully restored, until an orderly government has been established and in all probability until guarantees are given for the future. In the accompanying illustration is shown marines leaving Philadelphia for Haiti on the battleship Connecticut.

KILLED SON AND HERSELF

MRS. ALLEN, WIFE OF HEAD OF MERIDEN GRAVURE CO., HAD BEEN UNDER TREATMENT

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Nellie Breese Allen, wife of James Allen, president and treasurer of the Meriden Gravure company, fatally shot her youngest son, Gordon, aged 8 years, as he slept this morning and then killed herself. Mrs. Allen had been under treatment for melancholia. The weapon used was a large calibre revolver. The son was shot through the heart and Mrs. Allen sent one bullet through her brain. Mother and son lay side by side when Mr. Allen found them in response to cries of the governess, who had heard the report of a pistol. Medical Examiner E. T. Bradstreet decided that Mrs. Allen suddenly had become deranged. She had been under treatment for several years but last evening she was in excellent spirits.

Mrs. Allen was 47 years of age.

NO STRIKE HERE

Men Making Munitions of War in Lowell are Not Union Men

The country-wide strike of all union machinists employed in plants manufacturing munitions of war, which leading labor advocates of the country say is imminent, will not reach here according to statements made by machinists of this city.

The reason given for this is that there are not enough union machinists working in the one or two plants of this city which are turning out war materials, and that a strike could not be successfully conducted in these, unless the ranks of the union men were swelled by the addition of the machinists who at the present time do not hold membership in any labor organization.

The International Association of Machinists which is at the head of the movement to start a universal strike, sent organizers to Providence yesterday to enter the fight on the Brown & Sharps Mfg. Co. the president of which, Henry Sharpe, is the New England president of the Manufacturers' Metal Trade association. It is said by union leaders at the head of the movement that they have knowledge of preparations being made by the Manufacturers' Metal Trade association to head off the growing demands of the machinists before the movement assumes large proportions.

General Organizer Harry Gill, who is well known in this city, and James "Pitchfork" Henderson, who arrived in Boston yesterday, were rushed to Providence to take charge of the fight against the Brown & Sharps company where 12,000 men are employed. In the effort to head off the fight of the

Plans for Joint Cooperation to Restore Peace — Conference Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Interest in tomorrow's conference on the Mexican problem between Secretary Lansing and diplomatic representatives of the Latin-American countries was heightened today as further details of the origin of the plan for joint cooperation in pacifying the southern republic came to light. One of the latest developments is the fact that decision to ask aid of Central and South America in settling the Mexican difficulty was reached by President Wilson in June, when his warning to the warring factions to settle their difficulties and restore peace went unheeded. The diplomats were invited June 30 to participate in a conference while the appeal to the Mexican factions was made June 2. Announcement was withheld, however, pending the sanctioning of the plan by the Latin-American nations.

It was considered likely today that the first step in the president's plan which will be submitted to the conference by Secretary Lansing will be a last appeal to the factions to end the strife and arrange for a settled government. If any factions fail to heed the warning the plan is said to include extension of moral and financial support to other factions. The plan is said to include also a restoration of the ban on war munitions to the revolting factions and a demand that the railroad line between Vera Cruz and Mexico City be kept open for the transportation of food supplies to the starving people of the capital. Failure to do this might result in joint steps by the United States and the Latin-American nations to take physical control of the line and the railroad and to hold them pending restoration of peace.

Manufacturers' association, the union leaders declare they will give the Brown & Sharpe company enough trouble to keep the head of the employers' association busy. Important manufacturing companies of Massachusetts where the men have declared themselves willing to step out on a general strike are the Savage Arms company of Taunton, the Reed-Prentiss and the Whitcomb-Hairdell companies of Worcester, the Bosch Maereto company, the Hendee Motor cycle company and the Smith & Wesson Arms company, all in or near Springfield. In addition, the men at the Potter-Johnson company at Pawtucket are ready to step out.

No immediate walkout at the Sturtevant Blower Works at Hyde Park will be called within the next 24 hours is the result of a promise made to members of the state board of arbitration and arbitration by the union leaders. Organizer Ross Hall, who took up the work of organizing the machinists of this city over a year ago, has not been in this city for several weeks and it is believed that he will be needed in the work of carrying out the general strike order, if such is issued. While here he obtained valuable data regarding local concerns turning out war materials, which it is said he turned over to his superiors. The local union of machinists is progressing very day, but it will be some time before it will be able to get back the members it had enrolled a year ago, and until this is accomplished, it is said a strike is well nigh impossible of being carried out with success.

BACHELOR GIRLS' CLUB
A delightful entertainment was given at the Casino by the Bachelor Girls' club last evening. The attendance was very large and the success of the evening was very flattering to the young women members of the organization. Several excellent chorus selections were given and the frequent applause given by the audience proved its appreciation of the musical numbers. Particularly interesting and well rendered was the opening chorus, which proved a hit of the evening. The soloists were Misses Madeline Bolan, Mae Molloy, Rose Nicholson and Genevieve Wint. The interloper was Miss Etta

Finnegan, who proved to be the right girl in the right place. Another interesting number was the Irish dance given by Misses Mae Kang and Julia Boland.

ALL AMERICAS TO AID

The policy of watchful waiting has been abandoned, according to the latest reports from Washington on the Mexican situation, but the great ideal of peace and justice on which it was founded has not been abandoned. Failing to impress Mexico with the sincerity of the American demand for a settlement of the disputes that have so long torn that unhappy country asunder, President Wilson and his cabinet have decided to take another course that promises a practical solution of the complex problem, and that promises at the same time to advance American interests in all parts of the world without sacrificing any American principle.

Our government has now decided to ask the co-operation of Central and South America in the next step to be taken for the restoration of peace in Mexico. What that step will be has not been decided on as yet, but even though it should be armed intervention, it will be in concert with the southern republics. If the plans of the administration materialize, a conference of envoys of the leading Central and South American countries, with our state department, next Thursday, and at this conference plans will be formulated to restore peace in Mexico.

In this great Pan-American movement, President Wilson disarms the suspicion of all powers regarding our designs on Mexico; interprets the Monroe doctrine broadly, takes the ground from under the feet of the Mexican factions and draws the cords of brotherly relationship more closely around all the Americas. He gives a great impetus to the movement for closer commercial and social relations between us and the southern republics and goes a great way to remove the dislike which has operated so against us in our dealings with our great and progressive neighbors. While all the leading manufacturing nations are striving might and main to profit by the trade reorganization that must follow the war, President Wilson by this ideal movement shows this hemisphere that its interests are related and interdependent. This country will reap the reward in greater trade expansion and more cordial international relations for the future.

General Villa was quoted as saying a few days ago that this country "can go to hell." He and the other Mexican leaders have often shown that this is their true sentiment towards us. They evidently presumed too far on the well known desire of President Wilson and his advisors for peace, and counted on an united Mexico to resist possible armed intervention. Should intervention be finally decided on, Mexico will not face the United States alone, but the expressed determination of all America that Mexican outrages must cease. Once before, mediation by the United States and South America was potent to bring temporary relief, but it is to be expected that when the next move is taken by Washington, nothing short of permanent peace will be accepted.

It may be that the Jugglers will not approve this new step; a year ago they would certainly condemn it. Today war is not as attractive looking as it used to be, and they who would condemn the new policy of President Wilson have a hard task in making the alternative of war sound alluring. Our government, on the other hand, can truly claim that without abandoning any ideal or sacrificing any American right, it has only followed the consistent course mapped out to bring peace to Mexico and show humanity that one great nation can be just, unselfish and truly noble in its dealings with a smaller power. It is consoling indeed to turn from the inferno of the old world to the altruism of the new as reflected in this exalted policy of President Wilson.

THE HOSPITAL SITE

That perpetual contagious hospital site question is once again before us and the official intimations concerning it have a strangely familiar sound. We were told a few days ago that the selection would surely be made in a very short time and that the choice would be restricted to four prospective sites that had survived the process of elimination. A few of the sites mentioned were discussed during the previous administration and a future of popular opposition, and none of them had any new or exceptional features. Now the die has been cast, and the site selected is that selected by the previous administration and rejected after a storm of protest from the residents of Pawtucketville.

Probably it would be difficult to get an unanimous approval of any site mentioned or selected in this city since the law making such a hospital compulsory was passed, but the present choice has some strange aspects that give cause for general opposition. There certainly was sufficient time for the city authorities to make up their minds, and it is to be presumed that they decided on the Gage lot only after a wide search and deep discussion. The Gage lot therefore stands as the one desirable site in the city or its environs—in the opinion of the municipal council. It remains to be seen whether this opinion is shared by the citizens of Lowell or by any considerable number. It is out of the question to suppose that the residents of Pawtucketville will approve. Their opinion was voiced too recently and too emphatically to be yet forgotten.

A site selected by the last administration was rejected, partly because of the objection of the comparatively few residents in the neighborhood, partly because of the opposition of some interested individuals, but ostensibly because of the cost. This site had a splendid residence that could have been utilized, sewer connections, beautiful location, isolation, and many other requisite features. The cost was around $20,000 and a slight outlay would have given the city an adequate contagious hospital. Some members of the present administration were instrumental in having the site rejected, and a new selection has been made only when it was evident that the state would no longer tolerate conditions as they are.

It now remains to be seen in what the present site, as accepted yesterday, excels. It is in a far more populous section; it has no buildings that can be utilized; there will have to be a large preliminary outlay before any hospital building can be erected. Sewers, grading, water connection, lighting and such essentials will pile up a large expenditure and if the same judgment is shown in the erection of a hospital proper as was shown in some famous bridge plans of late, the city will have good cause to regret the change in hospital sites. Moreover, the original selection of this site aroused the angry protest of a large and growing section of the city, and the re-selection of it does not promise to be in any degree more popular. After ignoring the demands of the state for so long, the municipal council has come to a decision that has many surprises. The city in general and Pawtucketville in particular will view the long delayed selection with slight enthusiasm.

ENGLAND DEFENDS BLOCKADE

While this country insists on the observance of American rights under international law, the belligerent powers virtually declare that all is fair in war. They show no disposition to abandon any advantage or any policy that would prove advantageous, whether such be in accordance with or contrary to international law, or any other law human or divine. All of the belligerent powers seem to regard the law as binding only on the enemy, and while they respectively disregard it to a greater or lesser degree, our state department is piling up protest after protest, refusing to see in the pressing necessity of any nation just cause for the impairing of any American right.

Three notes from Great Britain now in the hands of Secretary Lansing defend England's efforts to suppress trade between Germany and neutral nations or even to suppress trade between two neutrals. If it is suspected that Germany has a direct interest in the transaction, there is a great deal of dissatisfaction in this country at England's interference with our commerce, and our government has contended that the English government is not respecting the terms of international law. Particular dissatisfaction is felt against the many orders in council which are very injurious to the business interests of this country and some of which are not in accordance with legal precedent. Great quantities of foods and raw products shipped from American ports to northern European ports have been detained, and there are millions of dollars' worth of goods purchased by Americans in Germany, Holland and elsewhere that cannot be moved, owing to the attitude of the British government.

Popular resentment here has not been shown against England in the same degree as against Germany, largely because of the sacrifice of American lives due to Germany's submarine policy, but nevertheless there is a well defined feeling that American rights must be respected by all equally. American business, backed up by the American government, will continue to demand that neither England nor Germany shall injure any American interests that are legitimate and guaranteed by the international law that is now so sadly disregarded.

BUSINESS STRAWS

The crop outlook in this country is splendid, money is plentiful, prices are high and there is no abnormal degree of unemployment, but business is not as good as might be expected. This is largely due to popular diffidence arising from a variety of causes, and is needless for the most part. Consumers are not buying in large quantities, retail trade is not as brisk as usual and as a result there is a feeling of depression in manufacturing and transportation lines. Nevertheless, taking the usual summer lull into account, trade is probably as active as could be reasonably expected.

Iron and steel are usually considered the pivotal industries of this country and they are looked on as barometers of general conditions. Both lines report unusual prosperity, but still bank clearings and railroad earnings do not show an appreciable increase. Railroad earnings in New England for both May and June show some improvement and there are many bright spots in the industrial situation. Motor car manufacturing is brisk, the textile trade keeps up, and war orders surge in in gradually widening circles. The basic conditions are sound and sure; the deterrent influences are for the most part temporary and remediable. The New England letter of the First National bank of Boston for July attributes the partial depression to the restless international situation, especially our strained relations with Germany and the English embargo on so many products of vital interest to American business. It also mentions the serious effects of the shortage of dyestuffs which has caused some mills in other sections to close. It is the feeling of most trade papers that general business will improve with the usual winter impetus and the passing of the international clouds.

THE IBERIAN

The positive report of American Consul Frost on the sinking of the Iberian removes the last doubt that the steamer tried to escape after being ordered to stop by a German submarine and her destruction seems to be in accordance with international law. Even though some American lives were lost, therefore, it would seem that our government has no just grievance against Germany in this instance. This incident proves, however, that Germany can comply with the American demands as to visit and search when so disposed. If Germany may legitimately sink any vessel that tries to escape after being hailed, there is little excuse for submarine attacks without warning.

With vacations as with almost everything else, many men have many minds. One goes to a beach resort, swims for hours daily, dances every evening, falls in love two or three times a day and leads a strenuous life all round; another goes into the quiet country, lays in a hammock waiting for the call to meals, pores over a book at intervals and patronizes the bed liberally. Both come back satisfied. If there is any moral in the contrast it is that most vacations are matters of mind.

Pawtucketville cannot complain that it has been ignored by our present governing body. First of all there was a bridge that fell down before it was put up and now it is the contagious hospital. The strange part of the matter is that the rest of the city is in no wise envious over either favor.

President Hustis of the B. and M. says the road has made a gain of two millions over 1914. There are no dissenting voices in the general vote of congratulation.

A little question for almost any old day: "Who has been drowned in the canal today?"

SEEN AND HEARD

There are a number of cures for the dissatisfied boy, but the best and quickest is to allow him to run away with a circus.

"Don't marry a woman to supply you with a home," says Lucille Hackett. "If a wife can't furnish her husband with a home, what then, it is desired to ask, is the object in getting married?"

A REAL ADOPTOR
A lady was walking through the park recently, when two little boys, who were playing nearby, stopped her.

"Say lady," called out the elder of the two, "me kid brudder does fine imitating stunts. Give me a dime an' he will imitate a chicken for you."

"What will he do—caw?" queried the lady.

"Naw," replied the boy, "no cheap imitation like dat, ma'am. He'll eat a worm!"—National Monthly.

A QUEER TIME TO BOAST
Two men sat on the river bank, fishing. One had a bite, and in the excitement he fell into the water. The other man watched him struggle, but did nothing to aid him.

"I can't swim," shouted the man in the water. He went under, and when he came up he shouted again: "I can't swim!"

The man on the bank watched him with languid interest.

The man in the water said again: "When he came up he gasped: 'I can't swim!'"

"Well my friend," commented the man on the bank, "this is a queer time to be boasting about it."—Tit-Bits.

HER REWARD
The cook for a well known Seattle family left, and no other could be obtained, so the lady of the house did the cooking herself, with such satisfactory results that after a while her husband gave her a beautiful set of tables as a token of his appreciation of the good dinners he had enjoyed.

This moved one of the neighbors to act accordingly when her cook quit suddenly. Addressing her husband she said:

"Well, the cook is gone and I'm not going to bother to get another. I'm going to do the cooking myself, dear. You heard what Mr. So-and-so gave his wife when she did the cooking?"

And putting her arms around his neck she cooed: "What shall I get for my cook?"

"Woman," said her husband, pushing her away, "you will get a long black veil!"—National Monthly.

AND HAS NINE LIVES
Mrs. Flint came for a visit to her sister's home in Haverhill, and her little piece was delighted to see her.

"What became of the black kitten that you had when I was here before, dear?" asked Mrs. Flint.

"I haven't heard a word," replied the aunt. "Was he poisoned?"

"No," said Elsie. "Drowned?"

"Oh, no!"

"Stolen?"

"Hurt in any way?"

"No, auntie."

"Well," said Mrs. Flint, "I can't guess, dear. What became of him?"

"He grew into a cat," said Elsie.—Exchange.

A tax and aged individual gained admission to the offices of one of the city's best known legal firms, says the New York Weekly, and at last somehow penetrated to the sanctum of the senior partner.

"Well," asked the lawyer, "what do you want?"

"The visitor was nothing if not frank. 'Half a dollar,' said the boy, 'and the man's unusual demeanor caught the lawyer's curiosity.'

"There you are," he said handing out the money. "I had counted on inheriting something from my uncle, but when he died he left all he had to an orphan asylum."

"A philanthropist," commented the lawyer. "What did the estate consist of?"

"Ten children," said the visitor—and vanished.

THE WAR HORSE
No roll of honor bears your name: Your death no poet heeds; No richly blazoned scroll of Fame Pays tribute to your deeds!

For you no watching nation prays: No tears for you are shed; Though wars and wars and wars are hideous with your dead.

Patient amid the hellish din You wait the trumpet call; No passion stirs you from within: You wonder—that is all!

And, when above the tumult rings The bugle's stern command, You strive and suffer for the things You cannot understand.

The trust that linked you to our side, And made of you a friend, Survives you though the worst betide, Unflinching to the end.

Shall it be said we had no thought For your dumb misery? When we acclaim the triumphs brought With your great agony?

The pity that your plight demands Must not be sought in vain: To ours to aid those tireless hands That seek to ease your pain!—From Four Footed Friends.

PUNISHING CHILDREN
Rabbi Julius Silverfeld of the Bnai Abraham temple, in High street, in addressing his congregation on the punishment of children, said: "Many fathers punish their children too severely for a misdeed, and when this happens the child goes right back and does the same thing over again. I once knew a father that tried this plan on his son. One day the father white-washed a pole in the yard and said to his son, 'Whenever you commit a deed that you know is wrong, you are to drive a nail into the pole.'"

"Sometime after the boy came running to his father and explained that he had filled the pole and couldn't get another nail in edgeways. Father and son went to the pole together, and then the father asked the son what he was going to do with the nail that he was going to drive into the pole, saying, 'seeing his son had nothing to say,

EDITORIAL COMMENT

STAY ON THE FARM

The country boy is not migrating to the city as fast as he did. It is beginning to dawn on him that when he drops the raising of food products, he is selling out his interest in commodity that is rapidly rising in price. Nobody ever advanced in life on that principle.—Lawrence Eagle.

BUYING BELGIUM

Is there any assurance whatever that Belgium would stay bought if the people of this country should care to invest their money in the land? Are they of sale anything more than scraps of paper?—Lynn News.

EASTLAND LOSS

There are some cases where the best lifesaving provisions in the world, a crew of generous size and the most elaborate code of service regulations are inadequate to prevent disaster, and the Eastland affair seems to have come under that head.—Springfield Union.

MRS. BECKER'S MISTAKE

Mrs. Becker made a mistake in placing an inscription on the coffin plate of an ardent husband, and the effect that the latter was "murdered" by Governor Whitman. LATE WAR NEWS guard fighting of the Russians to the northwest of Warsaw has proved so effective that the German tide seems to have been held up, while to the south Field Marshal von Mackensen's forces pushing north from Lublin are being badly battered.

About the only Austro-German progress chronicled on the vast semi-circular front in the east is toward Riga, in the extreme north and before Ivan-gorod.

Warsaw still holds out and the hope that the Polish capital may yet be saved is becoming stronger throughout Russia, France and Great Britain.

The German press notes the pause in the Teutonic offensive and explains that, with the daily lengthening of communications the problem of transport and reinforcements becomes more complicated, which accounts for the delay. At the same time the efficacy of the Russian rear guard blows is not ignored by the newspapers. The German emperor and his consort, heretofore reported on their way to Warsaw for a triumphant entry have had to postpone the completion of their trip.

From Warsaw itself comes the optimistic prediction that if the city is able to endure a week longer—and the despatch was written four days ago—the evacuation may be avoided. Though thousands of civilians have fled, life in the beleaguered capital is pictured as fairly normal.

The British empire observed with prayer today the anniversary of the declaration of war. Services are being held in London and in the provinces and throughout the dominions and colonies.

SUMMARY OF TODAY'S WAR NEWS

A Russian official statement from Petrograd claims continued and successful resistance to the efforts of German armies to cut off Warsaw. There has been severe fighting with very heavy losses on both sides. The Germans in Poland have been reinforced with troops brought from France.

Enormous Efforts

This report refers to the "enormous efforts" of the Germans to dislodge the Russians from their positions on the Narva river north of Warsaw. On the Plesha and Siewa rivers, farther to the northeast, the Russians have been attacked by the "entire German army," reinforced with men brought from France. The Germans, however, met defeat in this sector. The battle for the crossing of the Narva near Novgorod has not yet begun.

Russian Success

This official statement claims a Russian success near the mouth of the Siven, where the Germans had brought up further reinforcements. They are at present endeavoring to break through northeast of Ostrolenka. The German admiralty is still without official report on the destruction of the British steamer Iberian and the

MANAGER KELECHNER SIGNS ALL
MONTGOMERY AND FIRST BASEMAN
MUNN OF SO. ATLANTIC LEAGUE

When Manager Kelechner took charge of the Lowell team he was signed with the provision that he would have full control of the "hiring and firing" of the members of the team, and hence he is about to make certain changes and Owner Ronch is thoroughly satisfied with his judgment.

PORTLAND HANGED ZIESER AND LOHMAN WITH A VENGEANCE
YESTERDAY

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 4.—After winning the first game, 7 to 6, Portland showed no mercy to Lowell here yesterday afternoon, but grabbed the second game also, this time harmonizing to 6 to 1 in seven innings.

Watkins started on the mound for Portland but got into difficulties in the fourth and was yanked in favor of Raymond Jordan who held the visitors well. Zieser started for Lowell and lasted five innings when Houser was sent in to bat for him with men on. Houser called for the pinch runner to the rubber for the ninth, seventh and eighth innings during which the Duffs didn't score.

Lohman stayed on the rubber for the second game while for the Duffs, George Martin, a new man from the South Atlantic league, was in the points and acquitted himself nobly. He hit Lowell to three hits and showed a variety of stuff.

Greenhalge was ordered from the field in the second game for being saucy to umpire Aubrey. "The first game was played under protest, following a reversal of decision by Aubrey in the fourth inning. Aubrey was at second and tried to steal third. Watkins turned to look at him and then, finally throwing to Dowell, who had Aubrey by the feet, Aubrey called Aubrey safe and sent Aubrey from first to second on what he termed a balk. But Captain Sweet of the Portland team called attention to his error in judgment and Aubrey reversed his decision, calling Aubrey out and sending Aubrey back to first base. In the first game Aubrey took a foul tip on his shoulder and had to be attended by a physician between the games while the second game Lowell knocked out for a couple of minutes by a foul tip from Dowell's bat which struck him near the heart.

Lochner's drive over the left field fence for a home run in the second game was a feature.

In the first game Lowell scored one in the first inning when Swaine grounded first baseman Munn to first baseman. Dowell struck out Greenhalge. Dowell struck out Greenhalge. Swaine scored when Dowell dropped Hayden's perfect pop to cut off a steal at third. Hayden took second. Aubrey struck out.

Portland got her seven runs in the second and third innings. In the second game, Swaine scored when Dowell dropped Hayden's perfect pop to cut off a steal at third. Hayden took second. Aubrey struck out.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

If ever a champion of the world disappeared a crowd here, it was Jess Willard last week. This conqueror of Jack Johnson entered our midst, and he was not only a champion, but a champion of the people of Providence for their money, but to simply snatch it from their hands.

Champions of the world, like Jess, however, they all satisfied. John L. Sullivan made several trips to this city and on each occasion appeared before large and enthusiastic audiences.

Jess Willard came here at a time when Providence folks were all hot over boxing and Jess was a champion of the people. He was a champion of the people, but he was not a champion of the people of Providence for their money, but to simply snatch it from their hands.

Champions of the world, like Jess, however, they all satisfied. John L. Sullivan made several trips to this city and on each occasion appeared before large and enthusiastic audiences.

LEWIS BEAT GLOVER LE ROY IS SOME BOY

EX-CHAMPION FEATHERWEIGHT OF ENGLAND MADE BOSTON
BOXER LOOK LIKE NOVICE

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Ted Lewis, the ex-champion featherweight of England, who is now trying for the light and welterweight titles, lived up to his reputation when he met Mike Glover of South Boston in their 12-round bout at the Atlas A. A. last night. He outpointed Glover so far that Referee Phil Donahue gave the decision to Lewis.

Glover was never before in this city made to look so poorly. He failed to display aggressiveness. Lewis is the fastest boxer that has been seen here in a long time.

From the very start Lewis had Glover's face denoted that he would give him anything to get in a wallop at the speedy Lewis. Glover made a mistake in not doing same forcing.

Glover did not win the honors in any one of the rounds, and only in the 11th did he show on even terms with Lewis.

Glover succeeded in getting in a few light jabs, a right counter to the jaw and a left hook in the wind, but Lewis paid him back a hundredfold. While Glover stood on, as he thought, at a safe distance and fought, Lewis would suddenly make a quick bound, and before Glover realized Lewis was so close to him he would feel his left hand on some part of his face. Sometimes Lewis would bound out of Lewis's way as quickly, and Glover's intended counter would go wild.

At close range Lewis showed that he was a clever worker. He would hit Glover with both hands on the stomach and then work the loop-the-loop punch in his face or jaw with the right. Often, too, he would send a short left and right hooks to Glover's face and jaw. His smile was one of those kind that would help him get most any opponent "good," and it certainly acted as a good tantalizer on Glover.

Glover had quite an advantage in weight on Lewis, but that did not bother the latter. He entered Chicago university in 1911. He earned his way by caring for furnaces, tutoring backward scholars, working in the library, as usher at a theatre, collecting bills, clerking in stores and conducting school dances. He had so many duties he figured out a daily schedule in which he allotted a certain number of minutes for each duty.

Always, during his grinding and working he had an ambition to excel in athletics. For seven years he had exercised and trained. He could never do better than 2 minutes 1 second in the half mile.

Seven weeks before a big meet he determined to win. No one at the college ever saw such grueling training. He was told he would kill himself.

Finally the big day came, and Campbell, the fellow catches hoped might land fourth place, ran the hearts out of the best half mile runners in the middle west. He won in 1 minute 53.5 seconds, within 1-10 second of the world's record.

In the trials for the right to compete at Frisco he won the 550-yard run in 1:54.1-5, tying the A. A. U. record.

Campbell will toe the mark against the country boys at Frisco. If he wins he will complete the most remarkable career a college athlete ever had.

Twice his health gave out, but he kept up the fight. He entered Chicago university in 1911. It was a hard day for Umpire Aubrey. Twice the foul-tips K. Oed him.

Duffy's new pitcher, Martin, opened up well allowing Lowell only three hits.

Better luck today and for the remainder of the week, Zieser and Lohman certainly have been disappointing in the past few games that have played.

The Portland Express deplors only loss of a double away, of today and says that McKeon is known as the best athletes seen in Maine college ranks for years. Now that McKeon has left college perhaps he might be in the line for professional ball for the remainder of the summer. He can hold down third base with the average New England leaguer and much better than some. Take a look at him, Charlie.

Says Harvey Southward in the Lynn Telegram: "The New England league should arrange a post-season series with the champions of the New York State league. How would such a series look to you Ocean Park fanatics?" Southward, with that kind of bunk, Harvey, old scout!

The article reads: "Since the discovery that many diseases were caused by bacterial infection, it has been the universal custom to disinfect rooms occupied by such patients upon their recovery, removal or death. In order to kill the germs remaining in the room, they are destroyed and the dangerous contagion diminished."

"Dr. C. Y. Chapin of Providence protested against this practice, as life of the germs outside the body was very brief and they were so killed in the presence of light and 70 The money spent in the disinfection- of rooms was practically wasted.

"He claimed further that this practice tended toward positive injurious effects on the public health in creating a feeling of security which was unwarranted, since the ordinary householder, after disinfection of the room, felt that the danger of contagion was now entirely a thing of the past.

"To the contrary, it has been established that the chief danger is to the recovered patient, as the bacteriologist finds congenial surroundings only in their site in the human body, and in spite of all efforts to eradicate it and in spite of negative tests a
